Gas Masks Ordered For U.S. Civilians

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The War Department disclosed today it had ordered a "limited quantity" of low cost gas masks for non-combatants.

Officials said the masks were designed to meet requirements of a military commander in providing protection against gas for non-combatants remaining in areas under military jurisdiction and control.

"The non-combatant gas mask, however, is of a type which the War Department believes would be suitable for general civilian use," a formal announcement said.

"The mask provides protection against all known war gases in the same manner as does the service gas mask issued the troops, but is not designed for the long life and rugged use of the service gas mask."

TURKS MINE DARDANELLES

By the Associated Press

Turkey and Greece were declared to be speeding border defenses today as German armored troops overran Bulgaria and raced to the frontiers of Britain's Allies in the Balkans.

Dispatches from the troubled zone reported this development and said Turkey had called up all naval reservists, rushed warships to the Dardanelles and barred passage of that strategic waterway between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean to all ships without permit. Turkey announced all waters in the straits, except a narrow channel, had been mined.

Nazi legions, swarming across pontoon bridges spanning the Danube, were reported to have quickly established positions at four Bulgarian towns within rapid striking distance of Greece or Turkey.

Field Marshal Gen. Sigmund List, commander-in-chief of Germany's Balkan armies, was said to have established headquarters in Sofia.

Bulletins

BELGRADE, March 3 (INS)—Reports persisted here today that Germany and Italy were serving an ultimatum on Greece demanding immediate settlement of a compromise peace. Early German action against Salonika was anticipated here if Greece fails to accept the ultimatum.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 3 (AF)—Reports filtering into Sofia from the provinces today said the entire country was filling up with German troop units moving swiftly southward toward Greece and southeast toward Turkey. The vanguard of these troops already has reached the Greek frontier—at one point only 65 miles from vital Salonika.

LONDON, March 3 (INS)—The London Daily Herald reported today that 12 divisions of Bulgarian troops suddenly massed along the Bulgar-Turkish frontier. Turkish troops have been massed in Thrace for some weeks.

ROME, March 3 (INS)—Authoritative Italian quarters denied today that Germany will attempt to bring about an armistice between Italy and Greece and mediate a peace settlement.

BERLIN, March 3 (INS)—Telephone connections between Berlin and Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia, were "disturbed" today.

ROME, March 3 (INS)—British troops are being landed at the Greek port of Salonika, Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor who often acts as press spokesman for Mussolini, said today.

As the Nazis' fateful march developed, speculation arose that Hitler would bring immediate pressure on Greece to seek peace with Italy or face a German invasion.

U-BOATS NEAR TURKEY

The Turkish general staff met in a day-long secret session at Ankara as fresh Turkish troops were reported moving out of Istanbul toward the Bulgarian frontier.

Unconfirmed reports said Nazi U-boats assembled at the Rumanian naval base in Constanta had arrived at Bulgarian Black sea ports, within 120 miles of the Bosphorus, eastern gate of the sea of Marmora. Athens dispatches said Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was discussing with Greek leaders the question of rushing British aid for Greece in the event of a Nazi assault.

In Rome, Fascist Editor Virginio Gayda declared the British have already begun landing strong forces at the Greek port of Salonika.

STATE OF WAR LOOMS

In Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, British Minister George W. Rendel informed King Boris III that Britain would break off diplomatic relations with Bulgaria, probably tomorrow.

A state of war, he said, "undoubtedly" would follow.

Authoritative British sources in London declared a break in diplomatic relations with Bulgaria was "imminent" and would come as soon as the situation became either "dangerous or humiliating." That time, they added, "apparently has just about been reached."—Editor's note.

Hundreds of German officers were reported arriving in Sofia hourly.

International News Service reported from Sofia that the Bulgarian government suddenly BALKAN POT BOILS—With Hitler's mechanized army poised on the Bulgarian-Greek border (1) ready for a smash at the Greek port of Salonika (2), Bulgaria has closed its borders (3), preventing any exit from the new member of the Axis. Nazi supporting troops (4) mass at the Bulgarian capital Sofia, and pour in at the port of Varna. The Turks have mined the Dardanelles (5) and probably will do the same at the narrow Bosphorus (6). This action immobilizes the Russian and Rumanian fleets in the Black sea (7). Meantime, Yugoslavia waits on an anxious neutral fence, leaning strongly to the Axis side.

WALSH CHARGES AID BILL PUTS U. S. IN A WAR OF WORLD RUIN

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Senator Walsh, (D.) of Massachusetts, keyed a lengthy attack on the lease-lend program today with the announcement: "I look upon this bill as equivalent to a declaration of war."

SENATORS DAVID I. WALSH AND R. F. WAGNER
Walsh Blasts Lease-Lend Bill as Declaration of War

"Once in war," he asserted, "there can be no turning back. The Congress will have no choice, the people will have no choice. Such a war will not be America's war. It will be a World War in which we will join in world ruin."

This war view was contradicted by two supporters of the bill, Senators Smathers (D.) of New Jersey and Tamm (D.) of Delaware. Smathers said he was tired of "this parrot-like prattle" that war would follow. The opposition, he remarked, had used that argument a year ago when the arms embargo was lifted, and again when the selective service act was being discussed. The purpose, he charged, was "to frighten the American people."

N. H. Mother Still Hopes for Lost Baby

WEST LEBANON, N. H., March 3—While a mother in a state of near collapse expressed belief her baby boy had been kidnaped, officers and hundreds of volunteers today resumed search for Robert Apt, Jr., three years old.

A NEW member to the family of Henry J. Topping, Jr., is expected by the end of the summer . . . so Sir Stork reports. Report comes from Palm Beach, Fla., where the socialite and his wife, the former Gloria Baker (here) are vacationing. They have an infant daughter born a year ago last December.

Although convinced the child, missing since Friday, was drowned in the Connecticut river, officers returned to their dragging operations, while the town of Lebanon offered a $50 reward for information leading to finding of the boy, dead or alive.

In bed at her home Mrs. Apt said, however:

"I don't feel that my baby is in the river. Although he's been gone since Friday morning, I still have hopes they may find him alive. I keep thinking he may have been picked up by some motorist—that he may have been kidnaped."

"That would be terrible, of course, but it would be better than having him dead. He would be alive, and there would be a chance I would have my baby back again."

FATHER SLEEPLESS

While sympathetic women neighbors sought to console the missing boy's mother at her Bridge at home, his father, sleepless since Friday, still trudged wearily with searchers who have been scouring the area for two days and nights.

Apt, too, had a feeling his son's body would not be found in the ice-filled river, although less hopeful than his wife that the boy might be found alive.

Led by Police Chief Clarence W. Rice, searchers included more than a hundred American Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, CCG youths and neighbors of the Apts. Until ordered to bed by a physician last night, Mrs. Apt had participated in the search for her boy.

The search started when the youngster failed to appear for dinner after having been let out of the house to play during the morning. Since then this area has been swept by one of the most severe storms of the winter.

TINY FOOTPRINTS

Tiny footprints were found leading toward the river, 1000 feet distant from the Apt home, but Chief Rice doubted whether the frozen footprints were made as recently as Friday.

Last to see the boy was Edward Blanchard, who met him near the bridge over the river and walked him back home. Blanchard said he did not see the boy go in the house, however. The missing boy's sled was found in a shed at his home.

The family moved here from Ellsworth, Me., four months ago. Apt is employed in a rubber factory at Windsor, Vt.

2 Boys Saved From Clay Pit By Truckman

Two young Chelsea boys were saved from drowning today by an unidentified truck driver who pulled them from the Webster ave. Chelsea, clay pit when they broke through the ice.

The rescued boys are Clinton Richmond, nine, of Orange st., and Leonard Cohen, eight, of Blossom st.

According to police they were playing on ice when it broke, plunging them into the water which is estimated to be 40 feet deep.

A passing truckman for the Catalano Bros. Co., Chelsea, saw their predicament and pulled them from the water before other rescuers could arrive.

He took them to the Engine 3 firehouse, nearby where firemen gave them emergency treatment for immersion. He then rushed off without giving his name.

A NEW HEART INTEREST . . . MAYBE?—Latest communique from Hollywood tells of move made by Eric Remarque, the novelist, for company of lovely Greta Garbo, film actress . . . who's been seeing Dr. Gaylord Hauser very steadily of late. DYNAMITE FOOL-PROOF!

Thief Tries in Vain to Burn Sticks or Blow Up Autos, He Admits

First, he said, he took some of the sticks of dynamite and tossed them into a bonfire he had built in a vacant field.

Then, having survived that experiment, he placed other dynamite sticks in a street so that automobiles—preferably trucks—would run over them.

Finally he "borrowed" a shotgun from a parked automobile and was planning to take potshots at a case of the high explosive, but was balked for the time by lack of ammunition.

"And what on earth did you do those things for?" asked Lieut. James V. Crowley when he had recovered from his amazement.

MERELY CURIOUS

The oversized blondie Hyde Park youth who stood quite at ease on the platform in the police lineup, looked up and replied:

"Why? Oh, I just wanted to see what would happen."

The prisoner, who gave his name as Andrew Tweraga, his age as 21, and his address as Tina ave., Hyde Park, was identified by police as a former inmate of Concord Reformatory who had been in trouble several times.

Specifically he was accused of having stolen several cases of dynamite, containing 500 sticks of the stuff, from a shed owned by a Mattapan contractor.

Six feet, three inches tall, wearing dungarees, a ski-jacket and a ski-cap, Tweraga almost touched the overhead lights.

PLANNED EXPERIMENTS

He made no bones about admitting to the assembled police and reporters that he had taken the dynamite and he also explained he had pilfered a number of auto accessories from cars at different times.

Police said he had also disclosed breaks in two stores.

"What did you do with the accessories?" Lieut. Crowley asked.

"I kept them at home."

"What for? What were you planning to do with them?"

"Just make some more experiments."

Lieut. Crowley suggested the dynamite might have blown Tweraga and any of the automobiles to pieces.

"Would it?" the prisoner countered. "I just wanted to see what it would do."

"When you got that shotgun, now," Crowley continued, "what were you really going to do with it?"

"I was going to take one of the cases out into the field and shoot at it—that's all."

Earlier, Tweraga had explained the other "experiments."

"I tried burning some in the fire, but it only flickered like a candle," he said. "It made a strong smell, but it didn't pop or anything."

"Later I busted up another piece in my hands and crumpled it and then tossed the pieces into the street to see what would happen when the trucks ran over it."

"Nothing happened, so I figured the stuff wasn't much good."

STORED AMID RAFTERS

Tweraga, according to police, was taken into custody and the balance of the 600 sticks of explosive was recovered as the youth was trying to break into a Boston policeman's garage in Cummins hwy.

James Freesie, Jr., saw the blond giant in the act, police said, and raced to the home of Patrolman Perfor Fortin to give the alarm. Fortin wasn't home, but Freesie's father collared Tweraga, while the boy notified police.

Tweraga put up no fight and a cruiser car arrived within a few minutes. Then the dynamite business came out, and police found the explosive stored on the rafters of a shed in Tina ave.

Sergt. Edward J. Seibold, police ballistics expert, was called to take it away. It was restored to its owner while Tweraga was questioned. The prisoner was due to face Dorchester court later.

Son of U. S. Envoy To Peru Enlists

CLEVELAND, March 3 (AP)—Henry Norweb, 22-year-old son of the United States Ambassador to Peru, goes into the Army Wednesday as an enlisted private.

2 Orphans Awarded To Roxbury Woman

Richard J. Everett, 14-year-old who gets along "pretty good" with his 16-year-old sister, Edna, joined with her today in probate court in deciding they would rather live with Miss Mary A. Kelley of Montrose st., Roxbury.

This decision by the two orphans won for Miss Kelley, long a friend of their mother, her petition for guardianship, which was opposed by an uncle and aunt of the youngsters, Mr. and Mrs. Max W. Marsden of Peabody.

Unlike most guardianship and custody cases, however, victor and vanquished parted amicably in the courtroom, the Marsdens crossing over to shake Miss Kelley's hand and to kiss Edna and Richard before leaving.

FATHER WAS WAR VET

Claude C. Everett, war veteran father of the children, died several years ago. The mother, Merle C. Everett, died last Dec. 11.

She was formerly an employee at Thompson's Spa and for 13 years had Edna living in Miss Kelley's home, with Richard living there for eight of those years. The children now have small income accruing to them as children of a deceased veteran.

Miss Kelley testified today, in support of her petition for guardianship, that she owns her own home, a nine-room house; that she lets two of the tops floor rooms to two women and that she boards four young children.

When Edna is through at Memorial High School, said Miss Kelley, she plans to carry out the girl's wishes to take up dental studies.

LIKE REAL MOTHER

Edna herself took the witness stand, a pretty brunette wearing a red felt hat and a tweed coat.

"Naturally I would rather go to Miss Kelley," said the girl.

"Do you look upon her as a mother?" asked Judge V. Mahoney.

"Yes," she replied.

So then 14-year-old Richard be-

Wife Tells of 3 A.M. Raid on Rival's Home

4 EVENING AMERICAN MONDAY, MARCH 3, 1941

SALEM, March 3—It was 3 a. m. when police trapped her husband in the bedroom of a Butler st., Beverly, house with a woman, Mrs. Pearl A. Marks, 22, of Turner st., Salem, testified today in Probate Court.

She asked a divorce from Frederick G. Marks of Beverly on the ground he was unfaithful and named Mrs. Ruth R. Doyle of Beverly. Marks did not contest her action, which asks the right to resume her maiden name of Pearl A. Horton.

Testifying in support of Mrs. Marks was Officer Raymond McNutt of Beverly police, who told of the actual trapping of Marks, and Officer Albert Salvianetti who corroborated McNutt's story.

RUSE THAT FAILED

McNutt told the court that on a complaint obtained by Mrs. Doyle's husband he went to the Butler st. house about 3 a. m. of Dec. 6, 1939.

He said he knocked on the door and announced:

"I have a telegram for Mrs. Doyle."

But she replied: "Oh, no, you haven't. Go away."

Finally, he said, he identified himself as an officer and was admitted by Marks, who was dressed only in trousers and shirt.

Mrs. Doyle, McNutt said, was in bed. McNutt told the court he rummaged about the room and discovered a suit of clothes belonging to Marks.

WIFE'S PLEA VAIN

He arrested the couple, McNutt informed Judge Costello, and the next day arraigned them in district court, where both were given suspended sentences.

Mrs. Marks told the court she first learned her husband was running around with another woman about a year after their marriage on Oct. 24, 1938.

She said she had a talk with both Marks and Mrs. Doyle, but it was to no avail. Judge Costello took her petition under advisement.

Also taken under advisement were the divorce complaints of Mrs. Constance H. Brown, 35, of Collins st., Lynn, and Mrs. Florence R. Young, 22, of Hanover st., Lynn. Both charged cruelty, and neither suit was contested.

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Paging Mr. Dowd! Mail for Him Is About Himself!

If only there had been some kind of a forwarding address, former Sheriff John F. Dowd might have received one of the 1,000 circulars offering a $2500 reward for his own apprehension.

A sharp-eyed clerk in the state mailing department today discovered that one of the reward papers was in an envelope addressed:

"Sheriff John W. Dowd, Suffolk County, Boston, Mass." The decision was not to bother sending it out.

Thousands of circulars were sent to sheriffs who are in good standing and to police departments in all parts of the country.

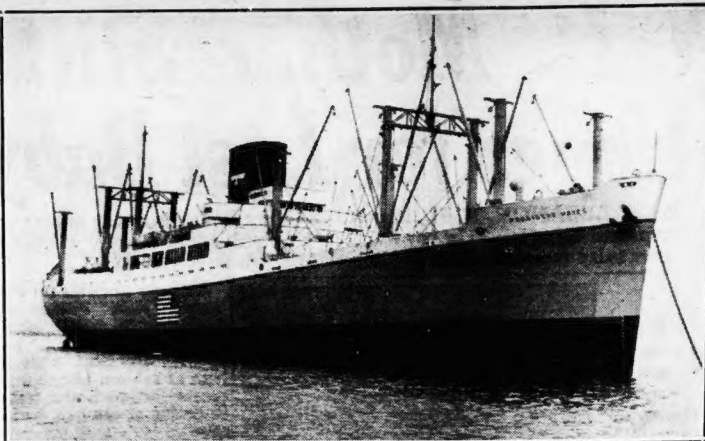

Treasury Will Freeze Bulgarian Funds in U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (INS)—The United States Government has decided to freeze Bulgarian funds in this country as a result of the German move into Bulgaria, Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today.

Hull disclosed that he had informed the Treasury Department this morning that the State Department felt the Bulgarian funds, estimated to total less than $100,000, should be frozen immediately.

Laborer's Lunch On Railroad Track Costs Him Life

SWANSEA, N. H., March 3 (AP)—A man identified as Ambrose Haisle, a woodchopper of Gardner, Mass., was found dead today beside the tracks of the Boston and Maine Railroad. Investigators said he apparently sat on the tracks to eat a lunch and failed to hear an approaching train.

Boston FBI Aide Weds One Day, in Army Next

When Herbert T. Cannon, 28, of Paris st., East Boston, who describes himself as a federal officer, was called in the draft today it was revealed he had been married only yesterday.

Cannon, sent by his draft board in East Boston to the induction center in Columbus ave., filed marriage intentions Friday at City Hall. It was learned, with Miss Rita B. Stefany, 24, of Millmont st., Roxbury.

Then the couple obtained a waiver of the five-day law from Judge Jacob Spiegel, special justice of municipal court.

BRIDE AT NAVY YARD

On the marriage intention blank the bride gave her occupation as secretary and today it was learned she is connected with the labor board at Boston Navy Yard.

She said she is 24 and was born in Roxbury, the daughter of John A. Stefany, a native of Austria, and Ann Mulkeen Stefany, born in Ireland.

Cannon, who is understood to have done field work for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, listed his parents as Thomas L. Cannon and Annie Grace Cannon, both natives of East Boston.

SURPRISED AT INTEREST

At the induction center, Cannon expressed surprise that there should be any public interest in his marriage. He and his fiancée, he said, had wanted things all settled before he went away.

A few hours later he had passed the examination with flying colors and was, instead of the Department of Justice, in another branch of the federal service—the soldiery. The couple were married at St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury, and afterward received congratulations at a small reception in the Fox and Hounds Club.

1 Dead, 30 Injured In Chicago El Crash

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP)—One man was killed and about 20 other persons were injured today in an elevated train crash on the West Side. Police said a three-car train, eastbound toward the loop, struck the rear of a single car train.

2 Leaks Found In New Liner

Two leaks were discovered today in the new $3,000,000 cargo and passenger liner President Hayes in an examination made after the vessel ran aground in Buzzards Bay and returned to Boston.

Both leaks were superficial, according to the examiners under Capt. Fred S. Walker, local inspector for the U. S. Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation.

The new ship, which ran into the jinx at the start of her maiden round-the-world voyage, was taking a little water in the forepeak and in the starboard double-bottom tank in No. 2 hold.

She was deemed seaworthy enough, however, to go to New York for drydocking, and left Boston at 11 a. m. in charge of her skipper, Dale Collins, who was on the bridge with Capt. Roger Sears, New York coast pilot, when she suddenly veered onto shoals last night.

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

316 MORE EXAMINED FOR DRAFT ARMY HERE

Through the draft mill, 316 more Greater Boston men were grinding today at the induction center in Columbus ave., with rejections running from 10 to 12 per cent, mainly because of teeth and eye deficiencies.

This was the second day in the inducting of 9100 men into the federal service from Massachusetts, with the work not expected to be completed before March 20.

On Saturday more than 600 men were accepted and were shipped to Camp Edwards, Falmouth, to join the 26th Division. The men accepted today will go to Camp Edwards on two trains, one at 4 p. m. and the other three hours later.

FROM BRAINTREE

Today's batch of draftees were from East Boston, Braintree, Beverly, Billerica and Brockton, with Braintree furnishing the greatest number, 92 men, and East Boston the next largest, at 67.

The East Boston contingent were sent over by Atty. Cosimo Nicastro, secretary of Draft Board 12, who said he now has only 15 more men to draw in order to fill his entire quota. The rest will come next week.

Nicastro sent out 50 special letters to draftees, advising that if they wished to report ahead of their dates, they could go as volunteers. The result was that 57 of his 67 had a volunteer status when they reported at the induction center.

FIVE VOLUNTEERS

In addition to the draftees accepted at the center, five Greater Boston men showed up there today and volunteered for the Army.

They were shipped to Fort Slocum, N. Y., from where, if accepted, they will be forwarded to infantry outfits in Hawaii.

Today the induction workers had more rooms in which to operate, considerable space in an adjoining building, as well as upstairs space in the regular building, being made available.

Harvard Man Wins U. S. Post

Prof. Milton Katz of the Harvard Law School faculty has been named advisor to Donald M. Nelson, director of purchases in the Office of Production Management, according to word from Washington today. He is one of four new assistants appointed by John Lord O'Brien, general counsel of the OPM.

At Harvard, Prof. Katz is conducting the graduate course on Public Utilities which was a major interest of Justice Felix Frankfurter of the U. S. Supreme Court while teaching there.

Previous governmental posts held by Prof. Katz include a year with the RFC, two years with the NRA and a longer term with the SEC.

Wife's Plea Fails To Clear Him

Despite the surprise appearance and testimony of his attractive young wife, Thomas G. Lyons, of G st. South Boston, was held in $5000 for the Suffolk grand jury today on charges of defrauding a public utility woman employee of $8400.

The complainant, Miss Santa M. Costa, 35, of Franconia st., Dorchester, accused Lyons of borrowing sums of money for the past three years on a pretext that these were loans to help him through Harvard Medical School.

Mrs. Lyons identified herself as a social worker who was trying to help her husband in his studies. With her salary she had been paying his expenses in taking a course in physiotherapy, she said, but he gave that up.

"He told me afterwards he was employed as an anatomist at Harvard," she said. "Miss Costa often visited our home, with a number of other young folks. She never spoke to me of having advanced money to my husband."

Councilor Post Goes to Wilkins

Raymond S. Wilkins of Winchester, personal counsel for Gov. Saltonstall, was today nominated to fill the seat vacated in the executive council through the death last week of Eugene A. F. Burnett of Somerville.

The Governor's personal counsel was chosen at a caucus of Republican members of the Senate and House from the 6th Councilor District.

His nomination is tantamount to election, and it is expected that the Senate and House will rush through an approval.

A graduate of the Harvard Law School in 1915, he is a member of the firm of Palmer, Dodge, Barstow, Wilkins and Davis. In the war he was a captain in the 301st Artillery.

FRANK O. K'D AS JUDGE

WASHINGTON, March 3 (INS)—A Senate judiciary sub-committee today approved the nomination of Jerome Frank, chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission, to be circuit judge for the district of New York, Vermont and Connecticut.

SKILLED WORKERS STRIKE AT CAMP DAVIS PROJECT

HOLLY RIDGE, N. C., March 3 (AP)—Skilled workmen went on strike today at Camp Davis, the Army's $15,000,000 anti-aircraft firing center under construction at this little town, 29 miles north of Wilmington.

Corp. H. C. Johnson of the state highway patrol estimated that between 3000 and 4000 workmen were picketing the entrances to the reservation where approximately 15,000 men are employed. The camp is scheduled to be completed late this month.

Johnson said the men carried signs proclaiming the project was "unfair to organized labor."

"There has been no violence or disturbance of any kind and we do not expect any," Johnson said, adding that the patrol had 10 officers on the scene.

The workmen not on strike went to their jobs as usual this morning, Johnson said.

L. H. Rouse, business agent for the Wilmington Building Trades Council, A. F. of L., announced last night that carpenters, electricians, blazers, boiler-makers and members of other crafts would join in the strike, authorized at a mass meeting.

The council, Rouse added, had asked a preferential shop, time and

Motorist Killed While Rolling Tire on Highway

NEWPORT, R. I., March 3—Harry Ohanian, 19, of Milford, Mass., was killed today on East Main rd., Portsmouth, when he was struck by an automobile. Ohanian was driving two private cars to Ft. Adams when his car had a blowout. He removed the tire and started rolling it along the highway in search of a garage. A car driven by George Hercules of Newport struck Ohanian and he died two hours later at Newport Hospital. Hercules told police Ohanian stepped into the path of his car as the rolling tire zig-zagged.

Quincy Pollution Campaign Is Aided

Residents of Hingham, Weymouth and Braintree today joined in Quincy's campaign for elimination of pollution from Quincy Bay and adjacent waters.

Committees in each of the three communities said they would join a Quincy delegation at a State House hearing on Wednesday, in urging passage of corrective legislation before the legislative metropolitan affairs committee.

Greater Hub Churches Will Begin Novenas

Several Greater Boston churches tomorrow will start Novenas of Grace in honor of St. Francis Xavier, great apostle of the Indies and patron of missionaries.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Harrison ave. and East Concord st., South End, special masses and devotions will be held in both the upper and lower churches. Masses will be at 8 and 9 a. m. and two masses at 12:15 noon in both the lower and upper churches.

In the lower church devotions will be held at 1:30, 3:20, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30 and 8 p. m., and in the upper church at 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 p. m. Confessions will be heard every day of the novena.

At St. Mary's church in the North End, novena prayers will be said at the 12:15 noon mass and the special services will be at 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30 and 7:45. The Jesuit Fathers will also conduct the novena at St. James' Church, Harrison ave. Services will be held at the 8 and 12:15 masses as well as at 1, 3, 4, 5:15, 5:45 and 8 p. m. Novena services will be held at St. Francis Public Chapel, Highland and Hawthorne sts., Roxbury, at 7:45 a. m., where the Rev. Joseph A. Keller, S. J., will conduct the service and the discourse will be given by the Rev. Edward Callahan, S. J.

At St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury, the services will be held at masses at 6:30, 7:30 and 9 a. m., and at 3:45, 5:30 and 7:45 p. m. The Rev. Paul Waldron, U. S. superior of the Columbian Missionary Society, will be the preacher.

The Rev. James E. McDermott, M. M., formerly of the Maryknoll China Mission Band, who spent 10 years in South China, will conduct the novena at St. Stephen's Church on Hanover st., North End. Sancier Island, where St. Francis Xavier died, was part of his parish there.

FIREMEN RESCUE METHUEN BOY, 9, FROM DROWNING

METHUEN, March 3—Leo Paris, 9, of Brown ct., was pulled from the waters of Spicket river by Fire Capt. Benjamin Bean after he had fallen through thin ice.

With a safety belt and a rope attached to his waist, Capt. Bean crawled to the rescue and other firemen then pulled the pair to safety.

10 It's Town Meetin' Day in Bay State

Voters in scores of Massachusetts towns went to the polls today on this traditional town meetin' day, but they voted just like their brothers of the city.

It was the traditional "First Monday in March," which dawned through the years has been the day on which town voters pass judgment on those in office and those seeking to unseat them.

Once all this was done in open meeting until towns grew unwieldy, such as Brockton with its 50,000 residents; Watertown with some 30,000 and Winthrop with 19,000.

Today they used the ballot box in dozens of polling precincts, but it still was town meetin' day in spirit.

MANY UNOPPOSED

Present incumbents were unopposed for reelection in many a town as never before. Office after office showed on the ballots as "unopposed."

Among Greater Boston towns where contests were scheduled were Winthrop, Arlington, Watertown, Dedham, Sudbury, Acton, Canton, Needham, Winchester, Randolph, Braintree, Reading, Wakefield, Lexington, Belmont and Marblehead. It was much the same story in other parts of the state.

Brookline's election will be held tomorrow.

In Winthrop, seven seek the three posts on the board of selectmen, with all three of the present board seeking reelection.

Of chief interest was the fight for school committee, in which J. Newton Esdaile, a board member for six years, is opposed by Franklin Bell, a member of the town planning committee.

In Dedham, six are candidates for three selectmen's posts.

ARLINGTON CONTEST

In Arlington interests center around a contest for tree warden. Daniel M. Daley, veteran incumbent, whose nomination papers through an error did not have sufficient endorsements, will run on stickers. He will be opposed by Park Comm. Frank W. Wunderlich, who will also run on stickers.

Brookline's contest for selectman will have Daniel Tyler, Jr., seeking reelection, and Samuel F. Blanchard, former chairman, both pitted against each other for the post.

Mrs. Lotta Erdbury Schick, Dr. Thomas P. Kendrick and Percy C. Idell, present members of the school committee seeking reelection, are proposed by Mrs. Helen F. Warren Smith, a former teacher.

There are six candidates for five constable jobs, and a contest for a vacancy on the planning board.

Can. on will vote on acceptance or rejection of the town manager form of government.

Rickenbacker Gains After Transfusion

ATLANTA, Ga., March 3 (INS)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker spent a restless night and appeared "slightly improved" it was reported today at Piedmont Hospital, where the famous World War ace is under treatment for multiple injuries suffered in the crash of an Eastern Airliner near Atlanta last Thursday.

The Eastern Airlines president was given a blood transfusion yesterday and placed under an oxygen tent to ease the strain of breathing with broken ribs. He has "a fair chance" for recovery, according to his chief physician, Dr. Floyd McRae.

"HELLO, CAMP HULEN"—Mrs. Oscar C. Bohlin, with her daughter, Charlotte, says hello and congratulations over air to Major Bohlin, 2d Battalion, 211th Coast Artillery, now stationed at Camp Hulen, Texas. Bohlin requested to be sent some good steaks . . . to the beef country, of all things!

Baby Boarder Is Fined $100

Charged with running an unlicensed boarding house for babies and failing to give notice to the state welfare department that she had received an infant to board, Mrs. Mabel Morse of Norwell, Dorchester, was found guilty and fined $100 in Dorchester court today by Judge Richard M. Walsh.

Mrs. Morse appealed the fine and was permitted her freedom in $300 personal bail pending action in superior court. She pleaded not guilty.

Miss Mary T. McCann of the state board declared that while the babies boarded with Mrs. Morse were perfectly healthy, she had failed to obtain a proper license and had failed to give notice as required by law.

Printer's Tax Problem: 22 Jobs in a Year

OMAHA, March 3 (AP)—Brother, if you think figuring out your income tax is a tough job, consider Nathan Bergman, itinerant printer.

Bergman boomed into Omaha, settled down to figure out what he owed Uncle Sam.

He worked on 22 newspapers last year, earned $1236. He figured his tax will amount to $10.88.

He tried to get exemption for travel expenses, but Thomas Cassidy, deputy collector at Cheyenne, Wyo., informed him his "method of travel was generally considered too informal to allow exemptions on that score."

His longest stay was 17 shifts on the Portland Journal. His shortest brought $8.80 on the Tribune at Great Falls, Mont.

But he's not worried about money.

Fifty-eight years old and a member in good standing in the Typographical Union, he's due for a pension in a year and six months.

30-Day Limit on Other State Plates

Motor Vehicle Registrar Frank A. Goodwin declared today that owners of cars registered in other states and operated for more than 30 days in Massachusetts must comply with the state compulsory automobile insurance law or face prosecution.

He said he had received a report that 200 vehicles owned by Springfield residents were registered in other states, most of them in Connecticut.

Hurricane Sweeps American Samoa

TUTUILA, March 3 (AP)—A hurricane, described in some accounts as the islands as the worst in 20 years, struck American Samoa last night.

The United States naval station here was not damaged.

Western Tutuila bore the brunt of the gale, which at times reached an estimated velocity of 90 miles an hour.

M'GLUE SEEN VICTIM OF FARLEY FOES

Charles H. McGlue was a victim of a "near plot" aimed at James A. Farley, when the former postmaster general was a candidate for the presidency, it was charged in a federal court today.

"The original prosecution of McGlue (for failure to file on 1935 income) coincided too aptly with certain political machinations of the Attorney-General of the United States, who was trying to tie up Farley with the public utilities," asserted Atty. Edmund J. Moloney.

Moloney, counsel for McGlue, former chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic committee, was opening the civil appeal against assessment of $6554 in income tax and penalties for 1935.

McGlue has served six months in jail for the criminal charge of failing to file on an income the government estimated at nearly $35,000.

It was because Farley had aided McGlue in getting a post as lobbyist for the Lowell Gas Light Co., a subsidiary of the American Gas & Power Co., that McGlue became involved in the "smear" campaign, Moloney declared.

In outlining the defense, before U. S. Tax Commr. Edgar Murdoch, Moloney said he would prove that sums of money which the government contended were paid to McGlue, actually were advances for necessary expenses in getting tax abatements for the Lowell company's properties in certain cities and towns.

Referring to one fund of $20,000 as "a kitty" the attorney said most of it was used in "organizing political groups" to aid in getting tax abatements.

"It was erroneous to charge this as a salary to Mr. McGlue," he said. "He never did have any such understanding about his salary, although he was paid the corporation close to a million dollars."

Prior to this tax abatement work, Moloney continued, McGlue had been employed by the American Gas & Power Co., amounting to $550,000.

McGlue received no fees, as such, for work he did for that corporation either in 1935 or 1936, the attorney contended.

Much U. S. Mail Lost at Sea

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The war is filling Davy Jones' locker with mail from the United States.

Eight vessels carrying mail from this country to foreign destinations have been sent to the bottom and 14,501 sacks of mail lost, a Postoffice Department compilation showed today.

A full sack of mail weighs about 66 pounds and holds approximately 2500 letters. Thus the war toll has been close to a million pounds of mail, or about 3,600,000 individual pieces.

Records of mail losses en route to the United States are not available here. Officials explain that this was not "our mail." Presumably, however, these losses likewise have been heavy.

The 14,501 sacks of mail lost at sea included 12,314 sacks originating in this country and 1587 sacks of "foreign transit." The foreign transit mail originated in other countries and came to the United States for transshipment.

KING, QUEEN AT ALFONSO RITES; LIES FROM HITLER

ROME, March 3 (AP)—Former King Alfonso XIII of Spain was buried today in the Spanish national church at Monserrato after a brief funeral service.

His sons, Prince Juan and Prince Jaime, and his son-in-law, Prince Torlonia, were the only members of the former monarch's family at the burial, attended by members of the Spanish mission and diplomatic corps.

The prince—Juan was designated by Alfonso as his successor if ad-when the monarch returns to Spain—left the church in tears.

There were lies from Adolf Hitler; a wreath from King Boris III of Bulgaria. Several German aviators attended the funeral mass.

Diplomats of Italy and the Vatican attended funeral services at Santa Maria degli Angeli, Alfonso's favorite church, while thousands of Italians crowded the streets outside.

The King and Queen of Italy arrived shortly before the service began, and former Queen Victoria, Alfonso's widow, was present, heavily veiled.

The body is to be taken eventually to Spain for burial in the Escorial, near Madrid, traditional burial place of Spanish kings.

Delaware Blue Law Swoop Jams Courts

WILMINGTON, Del., March 3 (AP)—Delaware Judicial today to handle in relays the prosecution of more than 500 persons arrested for violating the State's 200-year-old blue laws by engaging in "worldly employment" on Sunday.

Milkmen, motormen, cab drivers, delivery boys, streetkeepers, clerks and radio executives were taken into custody by the dozens. Some were arraigned today and other hearings will be held daily until all have been released.

The penalty for face of $4 to $8, a night in jail or both.

The program was instituted by Atty. Gen. Joseph R. Morford, who says the act either should be repealed or amended to strictly—and in emphasis on the day's activities he criticized a minister who broadcast a sermon.

CLOSE—THIN REOPEN

The public apparently suffered little inconvenience for many of those arrested and up business last long enough to sign bail and then re-opened.

In Wilmington where 250 arrests were made, those summoned included a delivery boy who was paraded in front of a hotel. Gasoline station attendants, drug clerks, restaurant proprietors, milkmen, three streetcar motormen, newspaper delivery boys and representatives of virtually every type of enterprise usually operative were charged with a violation.

A hotel which had a religious organizations breakfast scheduled required those in attendance to register as guests.

One of the few communities where enforcement was not attempted was Dover, the state capital. No explanation was volunteered by officials.

NAB RADIO MANAGER

While the Rev. A. H. Kieffman, pastor of the West Presbyterian Church, warned the Rev. J. Gordon Walsh, manager of radio station WDEL was arrested Morford said later that Rev. Kieffman was an "accomplice in the violation of the law" because his broadcast forced the station to keep engineers and technicians on duty.

Rev. Kieffman, president of the Maryland-Delaware Lord's Day Alliance, asserted that if the authors of the act had been citizens of the 20th century "they would interpret as acts of necessity and mercy some of the activities whose participants were arrested today."

The enforcement move started after the State House of Representatives rejected a Senate-approved "reprieve" amendment to the old statute. Later the House voted to reconsider the proposal.

4-Foot Snow Story Finally Gets Past British Censors

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—The censor permitted publication today that northern England had its worst snowstorm since 1868 during the third week of February.

The snow fell for 50 hours from north Yorkshire to the Scottish border, in some places piling up to four feet on the level, with drifts mounting to 10 feet.

Some trains were stalled, a few as long as 36 hours.

YUGOSLAVS ALL SET FOR AXIS PACT; PRINCE PAUL IN PARLEY

BEGRAD, Yugoslavia, March 3 (AP)—Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Markovic conferred a length with Regent Prince Paul today after the premier had returned suddenly by plane from his home province.

RAF Bombs Cruiser at Brest Docks

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—British bombers attacking Brest yesterday reported that sticks of bombs were seen to straddle docks at which a German cruiser of the Adm. Hipper class was berthed, while the raiders sank a 2000-ton vessel in a "enemy" supply convoy in the North sea, the air ministry said today.

Authoritative sources said the Hipper class cruiser was the some vessel the RAF reported attacking last week at Brest.

Other planes attacked the sea-plane base at List, in the Kiel region of Germany, and also bombed shipping of the Dutch islands, the air ministry said.

Two RAF bombers were reported lost.

PETAINE ENDS TOUR

VICHY, France, March 3 (AP)—Chief of State Marshal Petain returned from a tour of the main industrial area of unoccupied France, "deeply impressed by the enthusiasm of the workers."

Authoritative quarters said the Axis was expected the possibility of Yugoslav membership in the Axis would be met.

These sources said the signing of a pact would come soon as a result of conferences between Prince Paul and Viktor von Hutten, Nazi minister to Belgrade, shortly after the Bulgarian pact signing.

Von Heeren was said to have informed the regent that he talked last week with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop about "Yugoslavia's position in the Nazi plans for a new European order."

Then, these sources said, after discussing Yugoslavia's "position in the light of recent developments in the Balkans," and "alluding" to German military strength near the Yugoslav borders, the German minister asked what Yugoslavia's attitude was toward joining the pact.

Although no definite answer was given, authoritative sources said, von Heeren was assured such a development was likely to be "favorably considered" by the government in the near future.

Military observers said Germany probably would press for a speedy decision to facilitate the movement of German troops and equipment through Yugoslavia as well as Bulgaria in the event of a Nazi thrust into Greece toward the Mediterranean.

Yugoslavia's railroad and highway along the Vardar river valley, it was said, would afford a direct route for a thrust at the Greek port of Salonika.

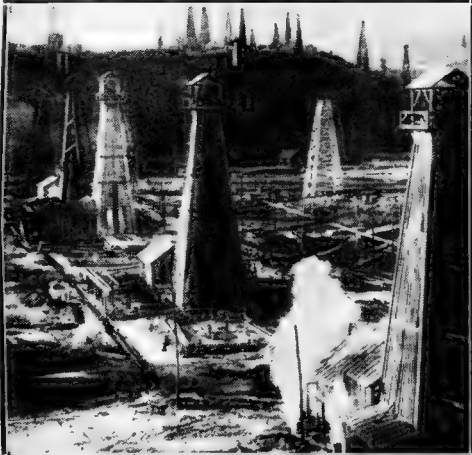

Hand That Rocks Cradle May Point British Guns Soon

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—The hand that rocks the cradle soon may guide the guns that rock Britain's skies.

Lady Carlisle, chief commandant of the Auxiliary Territorial Service which includes 35,000 women voluntary workers, said the government was looking favorably at A. T. S. operation of anti-aircraft instruments.

"They say woman's smaller hands may be better adapted to operating these delicate instruments than men," she said.

The work would be on "predictors," which help anti-aircraft guns find bombers over Britain.

HITLER FORCES ONLY 'GUESTS' OF BULGARIA, BERLIN INSISTS

BERLIN, March 3 (AP)—German troops entered Bulgaria as guests of the country, a spokesman declared today, and are in no sense an occupying force controlling Bulgarian affairs.

The spokesman said there was no comparison, for example, to the situation in occupied Denmark, because Bulgaria, which signed the Axis partnership pact last Saturday, was in alliance with Germany and approved the presence of the troops.

Consequently, it was added, the British minister in Sofia could remain undisturbed—if he did not mind seeing German soldiers from his window.

There were no reports here of any British bombing of Bulgaria and German sources said Bulgaria "isn't in the war."

The negotiations are under way with Greece, it was said.

There also were emphatic denials that Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia, had been invited by Berlin to talk about joining the three-power pact.

Berlin Claims 3 More Ships Sunk

BERLIN, March 3 (AP)—The German high command asserted today three vessels, totaling 21,000 tons, had been sunk by Nazi submarines and planes, and two other vessels were damaged "badly," all presumably yesterday.

France Admits Indo Partly Lost

VICHY, France, March 3 (AP)—Official French informants acknowledged today that important territorial concessions had been made to Thailand (Siam) in behalf of French Indo-China at the demand of the Japanese, but denied Tokyo's terms had been accepted entirely.

Specifically, they denied the whole of three Indo-Chinese provinces and the greater part of two others had been yielded.

Just what had been yielded was not disclosed, although one official said concessions were "large." He added:

"We yielded to Japan, not Thailand."

Some unofficial observers thought it perhaps boiled down to this: That France had agreed to cede strictly of Upper and Lower Laos on the right bank of the Mekong river opposite Luang Prabang and Pakse, but that the left banks of these areas remained at issue.

ITALY CLAIMS HEAVY BRITISH ISLAND LOSS

ROME, March 3 (AP)—Italy claimed today to have killed or captured a large part of 300 men of the "50th British assault battalion" which, a communique said, was the landing force which seized the Italian island of Castellorosso off the Turkish coast and held it for three days last week.

A special communique identified the British landing forces on Castellorosso as the "50th British assault battalion." This communique, detailing action from Feb. 25 to Feb. 28, said Italian heavy bombs hit one of five ships from which the British troops disembarked Tuesday.

After a two-day wait because of rough seas, it said, the Italians returned with a flotilla of light warships and armored motorboats to land a force of sailors, soldiers and Blackshirts under cover of naval guns and air bombers.

This force freed the captured Italian garrison the same day, the communique continued, and took prisoners. It then related this succession of events:

The British began to take off all troops from the tiny island under cover of superior sea forces. Italian naval units closed in to harass the operation and one armed motorboat got close enough to shoot two torpedoes at a light British warship. One found its mark, the communique said.

It declared an Italian destroyer also launched three torpedoes at close range at a cruiser and an explosion followed.

After half an hour of fighting, it asserted, the Italians were "masters of the situation."

Foreign Press Ban Widened by Rome

ROME, March 3 (AP)—The ban which prohibits the foreign press from telling of Italian troop movements was enlarged today to include German and "other Axis troops."

Foreign correspondents were told they would be forbidden to send such news even when printed in Italian papers. Such news hereafter may be sent only when included in the official communiqués.

Dardanelles Straits Are Mined by Turks

ISTANBUL, March 3 (AP)—The Turkish navy has mined all except a narrow channel in the strategic Dardanelles Straits, it was disclosed authoritatively today.

The mining followed closing of the Dardanelles to all ships except those given special permits and employing Turkish naval pilots. Turkish naval units also had been reported steaming toward the Dardanelles.

Ships seeking permission to pass through the strait, connecting the Aegean Sea and the Sea of Marmara, must notify Turkish naval authorities by wireless six hours before the transit is to begin and give full identification.

Turkey was calm as German armies swarmed into Bulgaria. At least one small Nazi detachment was reported from Sofia to have reached the Bulgarian town of Svilengrad almost on the three-nation frontier of Turkey, Greece and Bulgaria.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Authoritative sources said Turkey had taken "full defense precautions," but official sources remained silent on the question of mobilization.

The fleet units were said to have headed out of Istanbul, across the Sea of Marmara from the strategic strait, at about the same time the order was made public.

It was reported yesterday that Germany had asked Turkey to offer to mediate the European war and that Britain had scorned mediation when sounded out by Turkey.

German sources in Berlin scoffed at the report, with the remarks: "It is not for the winner to suggest peace."—Editor's Note.

A well-informed source said German Ambassador Franz von Papen had approached Turkish Foreign Minister Sakru Saracoglu before. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden arrived last week and suggested that Turkey was in a favorable position to mediate.

GERMAN ALLY

Turkey was an ally of Germany in the World War and now holds British guarantees of aid in the event of any aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean which Turkey resists.

The Dardanelles has been one of the most sought after prizes of history. The Allies tried unsuccessfully and disastrously during the World War to force the strait, the westernmost link in the triple chain between the Black Sea and the Aegean. The other two are the Bosphorus and the Sea of Marmara, and Turkey sits astride all three.

The strait was demilitarized after the war but Turkey was given permission to fortify it by the Montreux convention of 1936.

'SUNK' BOAT REACHES N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The 500-ton freighter Starogin, which the German radio said was sunk by a Nazi bomber west of Ireland last October has arrived from Glasgow.

U. S. Indicts German Named in Dies Probe

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Dr. Friedrich Ernst Auhagen, called a Nazi propagandist by the Dies committee, was indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of failing to register as a paid publicity agent for the German government.

He was indicted under a 1938 statute requiring all agents disseminating propaganda for foreign principals to register as such.

One count of the indictment charges that Auhagen, in disseminating German propaganda in this country, delivered lectures, arranged and conducted meetings, exhibited motion pictures taken in Germany, wrote magazine and newspaper articles for publication closed all Bulgarian borders today, sealing all avenues of entrance and exit. Official announcement said no persons would be permitted to leave unless they received special permission from the Bulgarian war ministry.—Editor's Note.

REPORT BRITISH ROBBING

Unconfirmed advice from the Yugoslav frontier said British warplanes had already bombed German-occupied Ploesti, heart of the Rumanian oil fields.

Yugoslavia herself, the largest power in the Balkans, was described authoritatively as ready to sign the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo pact—after German Minister Viktor von Heeren conferred with Yugoslavia's regent, Prince Paul, and "alluded" to Nazi military strength near the Yugoslav border.

In Athens, the arrival of Eden and Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British imperial general staff, heightened British expressions of confidence that "full preparations" had been made to meet the crisis.

A German spokesman in Berlin asserted Nazi troops had entered Bulgaria as "guests" of the little Balkan nation—gateway to either Greece or Turkey—and that the British minister in Sofia could remain undisturbed, if he didn't mind seeing German soldiers from his window.

The spokesman denied that German troops constituted an occupying force controlling Bulgarian affairs.

Simultaneously, reports from Bulgarian provinces said the entire country was being overrun by Nazi units moving south toward Greece and southeast toward Turkey.

GREECES ONLY CHOOSE

The German vanguard is said to have reached the Greek frontier—at one point only 60 miles from Salonika, key Greek port on the Aegean Sea.

Two trainloads of Pan troops were reported racing toward the Turkish border from Podiv, Bulgaria, 165 miles from the Dardanelles.

German mechanized forces swarmed into three Bulgarian towns just south of the Greek frontier, apparently leaving Greece with the choice of suing for peace with Italy or calling for British aid in the form of land troops.

The German press declared the military move put Germany in a place to prevent any British effort to "disturb the peace" in the Balkans and predicted that Greece, called "unhappy orphan of the storm," would have to pay for her alliance with Britain.

Could the Earl of Sandwich Have Stomach Ulcer Pains?

The origin of the sandwich was brought about by the famous Earl of Sandwich who liked to have one of the tasty morsels while playing cards. It is hardly likely that he would have invented the sandwich had he suffered stomach ulcer pains. Don't ignore your suffering. Try a 3-in box of Lidex for relief of ulcer and stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, heartburn, burning sensation, bloating and other conditions caused by excess acid. Lidex Tablets must help at money refunded. At drug stores everywhere.

Fencing Club To View Film

Without the most interested spectators tonight under the auspices of the Fencing Club, the film "The Great Pretender" will be shown at the Peabody Theatre. The film, which has been a success in many cities, is a story of a man who is a master of disguise and who is able to impersonate anyone. The film is a masterpiece of the art of disguise and is a must for all who are interested in the art of disguise.

BOSTON'S PLAYBILL

Opening Tonight

PLYMOUTH—RUTH DRAPER distinguished monologist and actress, and her nephew, PAUL, a versatile dancer, will be presented by S. Hurok in a revue of sketches, dances, monologues and music. One week only. Thurs. and Saturdays.

Next Monday Night

COLONIAL—"CABIN IN THE SKY" with Ethel Waters and Katherine Dunham heading the all-Negro cast in the Victor Freeland-Albert Lewis production of the musical fantasy by Vernon Duke and John Root, which opens its first engagement here following a highly successful New York run. Others in the cast are Rex Ingram, Todd Duncan, Dorey Wilson, Rosamond Johnson and the Katherine Dunham dancers. Two weeks. Wed. and Sat. nights.

PLYMOUTH—"SENDER BLANK" with Maurice Schwartz heading the Yiddish Art Theater production of Jacob Rothbaum's adaptation of Sholem Aleichem's story for eight performances. It is described as a Jewish "Life with Father". The cast includes Anna Appel, Lucy Gorman, Luba Kadish, Isidor Casner and Lazar Fried.

In Prospect

SHUBERT—"BLOSSOM TIME" Shubert revival of the famous operetta dealing with the romances of Franz Schubert. It is due here the night of March 17. The company, which played 12 weeks in Chicago, is said to be the best ever assembled and in 1914 Edwin Daw, Martha Kellum, Doug Lovatt, Frank Houston, Victor Morley, Zella Russell, and Walter Marjorie Ford, Betty Davis, Robert Barry, Truman Gilze and Dickрил Wolfe.

PLYMOUTH—"YOUR LOVING SON" Abby Mann's comedy, is another March 17 opening. Under the sponsorship of Jay Richard Kennedy, Alfred Bloomfield and Joseph E. Long, it will begin a week pre-Broadway engagement with Jay Fasset, Lily Cahill, Frankie Thomas, Edna Nugent, Kate Wainman and Charita Bauer so far as roles for the cast. Arthur Simon is directing.

CIVIC REPERTORY—"ONE ON THE HOUSE" the Harvard-Putnam Club of Harvard University annual musical show, will give three performances, the first, March 21. On the following week there will be performances in the Cambridge Clubhouse. Robert Barrin will again play the leading role in this tale of a hot date and a cold one.

Susan Shaw Burlesque Debut in Boston Today

Cine. Theater patrons are due for a potent eye-wash today when the newest burlesque discovery, "Sweet Susan" Shaw, makes her local debut.

For this season's "find," who has had the burlesque circuit a-twirl with the most extravagant of predictions is heralded as not only possessed of a world of talent but interestingly beautiful as well. She's blonde besides, gentlemen.

Not so easy on the eyes but devastating to your dignity are a trio of comics, who will be making their local debut in the new Casino revue—Harry Meyers and Fields and George. Others in the comedy brigade include Bobbie Vail, Eddie Z. Yabed and Bob Rogers, the last named one of burlesque's best straight men.

Tease specialist Doray, Lee Marmer, Elmer Valent, Ray Willis and the 30 Casino dancing-dolls, who have a completely new Chuck Gregory production number routine, are others importantly spotted in the new revue.

Featuring the bill are two new screen attractions.

HAYDEN STAYS IN BOSTON

Opportunity to see in person Hollywood's screen find of the year and Boston's own favorite son, Stirling Hayden, has been extended.

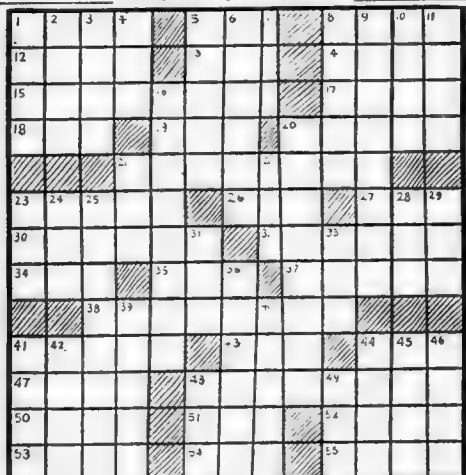

Hayden has obtained leave of absence from his Hollywood home to remain here through Wednesday, which means that he may be seen daily at the Paramount at 1:50 and 8:30 p. m. and at the Fenway at 2:45 and 9:25 p. m.

"Virginia," in which he makes his screen debut with beautiful Madeline Carroll, is being shown at both these houses.

18 FT. MYERS BARRACKS RAZED

160 Soldiers Lose All as Blaze Sweeps Old Structure

Overheated Flue is Blamed—As soldiers stand by, firemen battle spectacular blaze which razes barracks at Fort Myer, Va. Several firemen were hurt and felled by smoke, as personal effects of 160 soldiers were destroyed. Official explanation: Overheated flue.

Freak Accident—Three men were injured when the rear end of a southbound freight sideswiped a northbound train near Layton, Utah, sending engine into pit and three cars into a splintered pile of kindling . . . like this. Fog was blamed.

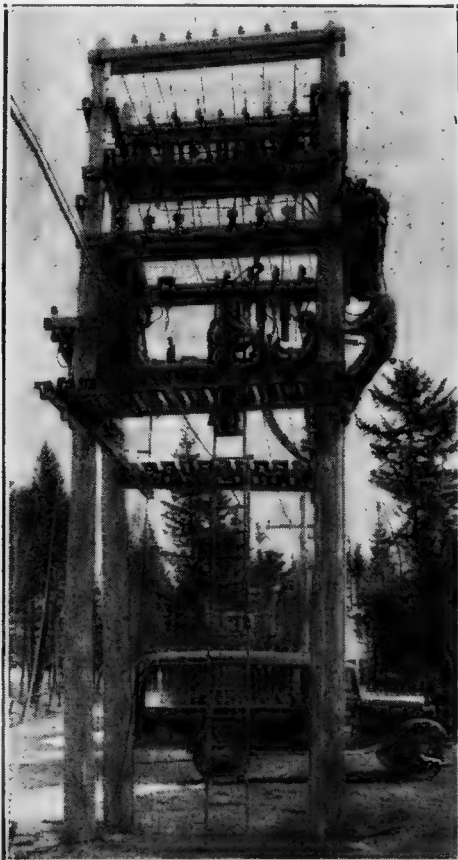

Slimmering—In keeping with this time when a young girl's fancy lights to thoughts of diets, Mary McNulty, senior at Port School, goes in for exercise . . . and you see her toss pounds by heaving a 12-pound medicine ball around, a C. A. gym.

HOW DOES America's recently expanded Army compare with the Nazi Army and the defeated Armies of France, Belgium and Holland?

If America should go to war under present conditions, how effectively could the United States Army of today be used?

We can think of no more proper questions for an editorial column in these troubled times.

Therefore, we present the views of Major Malcolm Wheeler-Nicholson, noted writer on military affairs, whose textbook, "Modern Cavalry," has been used by five European Armies.

Major Wheeler-Nicholson tells us:

(Copyright, 1941, by International News Service)

The American Army as constituted at present is not only inferior to the Nazi Army, but also inferior to the Armies already beaten by the Nazis.

We should have courage to face this fact. Better to take measures now, while time is still left us, than to learn our lesson too late, with the useless slaughter of our sons and the loss of our liberties as a penalty.

It should be obvious that mere numbers of men in uniform do not make an Army capable of defending a nation. The Armies already defeated by Hitler totalled 8,000,000 men, most of whom are slaving in prison camps today. What assurance have we that our Army is any better than the defeated Armies of Holland, Belgium and France?

We have no assurance except wishful thinking and hope. On the contrary, there is much cumulative evidence to point out that our Army is today inferior to those already defeated.

MAJOR MALCOLM WHEELER-NICHOLSON
Counselor America
Face Facts

THE ARMY OF HOLLAND mobilized over half a million men in 48 hours. The Belgians mobilized three-quarters of a million men in the same period. France mobilized a first line force of close to a million men with equal celerity, following this by the mobilization of an equal number in 72 hours.

In all these Armies the men and officers were trained, uniformed, equipped and armed, each unit a self-contained, fighting machine with trained staffs to co-ordinate and direct them.

It took America nearly two years to mobilize a partially trained, partially equipped army of 2,000,000 men in the World War, and to get it into battle.

OUR SECOND COMPARISON is quality and quantity of weapons. One item alone will illustrate our position in regard to these. Tanks emerged from the last few months of the World War as the weapon of the future. In 1933 the British had 1000 modern tanks. The French had 2500 modern tanks organized in 10 regiments. The Germans had an estimated 4000 tanks.

In 1939 the American Army possessed exactly 23 light and medium modern tanks. At this late date, production in light tanks has mounted to a maximum of 300 monthly. Medium tanks are not yet in production and heavy tanks are still in the blueprint stage.

THE THIRD TEST of our comparative military efficiency is training.

To give a graphic picture of how little our Army has progressed in training since the last war, let it be recalled that the main complaint in France (1917-18) was the lack of American artillery and machine gun supporting fire for its advancing infantry.

This was brought out in the Congressional investigation of the 35th Division and in the Leavenworth Schools report on the use of machine guns in the war which stated in part "... At St. Mihiel the 5th Division went forward without machine gun covering fire ... The 90th Division made practically no use of its machine guns, etc." That was 1918.

In 1940, Major-General H. J. Brees, in charge of the Louisiana maneuvers made this critique of the operations: "The lack of support by heavy weapons, particularly artillery, is painfully evident in many actions ... If the result would not have been so tragical (in real war) some of the so-called attacks without the use of supporting weapons were so absurd as to be farcical."

OUR FOURTH COMPARISON is leadership, and it should be fairly obvious by now that the question of leadership has nearly answered itself.

If anything more were needed we will quote Major-General Brees again, who after the blistering critique, part of which we have quoted, ended up with these ominous words, "The fault in most cases, lies with the senior officers."

On The Side

RAIN is very popular with some people. They speak lovingly and longingly of the patter of the rain on the roof, of riding around in the rain, singing in the rain, a garden in the rain, etc. They cry delightedly "It's Not Raining Pain to Me, It's Raining Violets." And there is a very popular poem about the advantages of marrying a man who "Loves the Rain and Looks on Life with Quiet Eyes." At the moment I am somewhat bitter on the subject of rain. It has been raining in our neighborhood for two weeks. My dog is bitter about it, too. But he blames me. Having seen me turn off the water in the bath tub he wonders why I don't turn off the rain. He sits around giving me dirty looks. Rain is all right when it comes in short, April showers followed by rainbows, but when it patters and patters on the pavement so steadily that a man nearly drowns while trying to cross the street, as one did in our vicinity, it is much too much.

PASSING BY: William duPont, Jr. Industrialist and sportsman. In Wilmington, Del., there are about 70 duPonts, all millionaires. Only other person I know from Wilmington is Estelle Taylor, who was the second wife of Jack Dempsey ... Vincent Lopez. His band was first I ever heard on the radio. His salutation was: "Lopez speaking." In his youth, Mr. Lopez was a piano player in a place in Sheephead Bay, L. I. The first race track I ever saw was at Sheephead Bay and as far as the track is concerned—that is, the place where the horses run—I have yet to see one to equal it ... Carmen Miranda. The patting Portuguese. Her latest ditty is something called: "Ty, Yi, Yi, Yi." It isn't so much what Carmen sings; it's the way she sings it. And don't forget to give the South American band that accompanies her plenty of credit ... Sir Thomas Beecham. Visiting British orchestra leader. In a recent speech before a woman's club in the West he said in part the United States has no theater, no opera, no actors and no architecture worthy of the name. As for what Sir Thomas referred to as the "cinema," he thought it practically beneath comment. The only "cultural aspect" the United States had, said he, was the English language and the people of the United States were forgetting how to speak that. Some of the ladies present hissed Sir Thomas. He got off easy. Why do we pay people to come here and insult us?

DURLING APPLAUDS HER NEWEST DITTY
Carmen Miranda, South American Singing Star

"WHY is it New Yorkers never had a good word to say about California?" writes a Los Angeles subscriber. But they do, sir. For example, I quote Bill Corum, the celebrated sports essayist. Says he, speaking of Santa Anita race track: "In my opinion there is no better racing anywhere than at the picturesque flower hanked course under Old Baldy." What, I ask you, could be fairer than that?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday—A perfectly delightful thing happened to me the other day, but I have been so pressed for space that I haven't told you many of the things which I should like to tell you. However, I must tell you!

A young Viennese friend of mine, Charlotte Kraus, a singer, in collaboration with a friend of hers, Madame Rona, a Czechoslovakian sculptress, induced my son, Franklin, Jr., to sit for a head which will belong to me after Madame Rona's exhibition. I am perfectly delighted to have it. In a curious way, this head showed me certain things about my son which I had not noticed before. He looks older, and yet from the right profile the childish resemblance is still strong.

My youngest son, John, and his wife came home from their cruise on Thursday, having had a splendid time on the first holiday they have spent together in some time. I was glad to be able to turn over to them a healthy baby, who had acquired several teeth during their departure and had learned really to crawl.

JOHN AND ANN brought to my attention a child's book: "Timothy Taylor, Ambassador of Good Will," by Helen Husted. I think that many adults, as well as children, will enjoy this story in verse of a little boy whose father made him feel that coming to the United States during the war, was really being an ambassador who made friends for his country in a period when friends were much needed.

Friday, in the midst of our snowstorm, I drove up to Howard University to see the exhibition of paintings by Negro artists of Chicago. It was like a fairy world coming across the campus, battling with the wind and snow, were a gay group. Inside, the paintings were almost entirely reminiscent of gay colors and summer scenes.

George Neal, who is represented by two paintings, lost much of his work in a fire two years before he died, but he was the inspiration of many other painters. He gathered them around him and taught them. They painted in spite of poverty, living in attics and practically starving while they worked.

ONE LITTLE CERAMIC by Edward T. Collier is the loveliest shade of green I have ever seen, and one or two of Joseph A. Kersey's sculptures are extremely interesting. I am always fond of water colors and would have liked to walk away with some that were on exhibition.

Friday night I dined with members of the Federal Bar Ass'n. While I felt they were very kind to invite me, I also felt very hesitant about inflicting any words on such an important group. I was very glad to have the opportunity, however, to hear two extremely interesting and able speeches from Mr. Robert Patterson, Assistant Secretary of War, and Mr. Francis Biddle, the Solicitor-General.

LUCIUS BEEBE AIDS YOUNG BOXER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 3—A young New England heavyweight fighter, weighing 230 pounds, now has six owner-managers. The six are Wolcott Gibbs, Lucius Beebe, Ann Honeycutt, her husband and two other regulars at the Artists' and Writers' Club. Each contributes $5 a week for his support until he's ready to emerge and be matched.

BUSINESS DEPT.: This week Mr. and Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart decided to present an unusual gift to some Long Island friends. Mrs. Stewart therefore telephoned Barney Greengrass, who is famed for his smoked salmon and delicatessen—and ordered two dozen kosher frankfurters. . . . Mrs. Greengrass reported that he had excellent frankfurters, but no kosher ones. "Sorry, but I want kosher ones," said Mrs. Stewart. . . . "But these are just as good," the delicatessen man assured, and so for ten minutes Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart repeated her insistence upon kosher frankfurters, while Mr. Barney Greengrass protested that the non-kosher ones were just as good.

TRAVEL DEPT.: Thornton Wilder will leave for South America on a three-months' assignment from the State Department. His assignment covers three countries—Colombia, Ecuador and Peru. . . . For the past eight weeks, in preparation for his special job, Wilder has been taking Spanish lessons. . . . Last night he supped with Ruth Gordon, and Dolores del Rio. "A good-will assignment is a tough job," Wilder was told. "What's the first thing you're going to do?" . . . "First," suggested Miss Gordon, "tell 'em that you know Dolores del Rio. But on second thought, you'd better not—because they wouldn't believe you."

THEATER DEPT.: John LaTouche, who wrote the lyrics for "Cabin in the Sky," recently was married to the daughter of Stanton Griffis, the Paramount official. Griffis tendered a party for them, and invited 300 of his friends. LaTouche knew hardly any of them. . . . He walked from group to group, staring at the notables. . . . In one corner, he saw Katharine Cornell, Gilbert Miller and Brock Pemberton, approached the trio, and asked, politely: "Drink?" Pemberton's acknowledgment to the guest of honor was "No. . . er . . . sorry. No, thank you."

DRAMA DEPT.: Meyer Weisgal devoted more than four years to the realization of his production of "The Eternal Road"—obtaining the rights to Franz Werfel's play, signing Max Reinhardt, Norman Bel Geddes and Kurt Weill, and raising $500,000. But one day a mailman arrived at Weisgal's production office, and removed all the furniture. In that empty, forlorn room, without even a chair, he walked the floor, wondering by what miracle he could raise an additional $20,000, without which the curtain would not be permitted to rise that night. . . . The door opened, and in came a committee with a bronze plaque for him, memorializing his valiant, tireless and unselfish services. "Is it possible to remove my name, and substitute another?" Weisgal asked. . . . The astonished committee informed him that it was unusual but possible. Within the hour Weisgal had removed his own name, and substituted that of a wealthy man who had backed part of the production cost. The committee proceeded to that man's office, and presented the plaque to him. Weisgal waited, phoned the man—and raised the $20,000.

LOCAL NEWS: Bill Bullitt's new federal appointment will be announced in 10 days. . . . Magnesium and zinc will be the next products tapped by the priorities board of the O. P. M. . . . Jan Valtin, author of "Out of the Night," is completing a second book—about his experiences since the time he started writing the first one. . . . Eugene Lyons' newest will be called "The Incredible Revolution," in which he will attack Hollywood and Broadway leftists. . . . Publishers are planning to release a collection of Roosevelt's and Churchill's speeches, in one volume. . . . Charles LeMaire is opening a swanky midtown dress shop. . . . The Mrs. Henry Smith of Green Island, N. Y.—whose "Information Please" question stumped Pres. MacCracken of Vassar—is a Vassar alumna.

EXCLUSIVE: The leading candidate to succeed Atty.-Gen. Robert H. Jackson—who is to be elevated to the Supreme Court bench—is a noted Bostonian, a former judge. . . . When we identify him as a "candidate," it should be explained perhaps, that his sponsor is FDR.

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: Dr. Giovanni, the play of the pickpockets, is a tremendous hit at the Patio, Palm Beach, and the Patio is the hit of the Palm Beach season. . . . The good doctor endeavored himself to Boston while breaking long-run records at the Ediz-Carlton last summer.

GIOVANNI'S MOST AMUSING routine is his sander-stealing trick. . . . But he also removes gentlemen's waistcoats and whatever rests in their pockets. . . . Among his victims over the week-end he calls them his "clients"—were Elmer Ward, Jack McCarthy, the Boston men's wear buyer, Jim Mutley, the advertising man, and Harold G. "Hap" Kern, who works for this newspaper.

FROM THE PALM BEACH PATIO to the Boston rendezvous in Harlem known as Mother's Lunch is quite a leap—for one paragraph. . . . But no less hilarious than the discomfiture of the Great Giovanni's victims in the tropics, was the encounter of Karl Bernstein, press-agent for "Cabin in the Sky," with the manager of Mother's Lunch, which sells both room and board in Boston's Harlem.

ONE OF THE DUTIES of the press-agent, or advance agent, of a Broadway show is to find suitable accommodations for the cast in advance of the show's arrival. . . . Mr. Bernstein was communicating with the boss of Mother's Lunch to book reservations, and toicker for rates, for the supporting cast of the Ethel Waters show.

PRELIMINARIES CONCLUDED. Mr. Bernstein gave the male boss of Mother's Lunch his address in New York. . . . "Will you pay strict attention, please?" Mr. Bernstein asked the dusky gentleman on the other end of the wire. "Oh, yessah! That's what I'm shodda, suh," was the reply.

"VERY WELL, THEN," said Mr. Bernstein. . . . "I want you to write me all the particulars. . . . The name is Karl Bernstein. . . . 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City." . . . "Yas—suh, Mr. Rockefeller, suh!" was the answer. "I has it. . . . 30 Bernstein Plaza, New York City."

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Four local purveyors of milk are in such serious difficulties that indictments will be returned very soon. . . . Purveyors of nightclub entertainment, however, are leading in prosperity. . . . Harriet Hootler is pulling swarms of paying customers to the Mayfair. . . . Fritz Scheff and Bobbie Hackett are attracting ringersiders whose age varies as widely as the brand of Miss Scheff's sweet music, and Maestri Hackett's hottest jazz. . . . And the Coconut Grove continues on high.

THE LATIN QUARTER RETAINS its ranking position as the No. 1 tourist spot. . . . The energy of young Harry Spear, the club's singing emcee, evidently is tempered by a power of gentle persuasion that can work marvels. . . . Who would have thought that an extemporé act of Spear and Saltzstall could ever have been developed to the point where no first-class Republican rally is complete without a rendition of "School Days" by this duo?

THE GOVERNOR AND MR. SPEAR repeated their stunt of the G. O. P. Victory Dinner the other night, and got through two choruses of Lev's favorite tune for the benefit of the Suffolk County Republican Club, at the Bradford. . . . The Governor is nasal but true-toned. . . . His voice quivers a trifle, from nervousness, no doubt, but he neither flirts nor sharpens his notes and the "act" is—beyond dispute—the best applause-getter in the city.

FRITZI SCHEFF
She Draws the Ringsiders

Hollywood Today

BARRYMORE TO GET PRODUCER ROLE

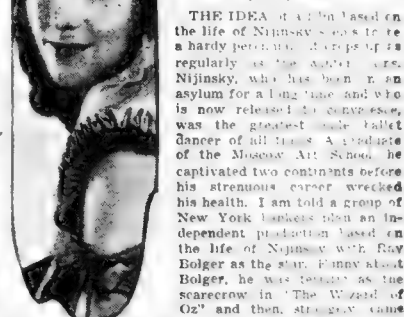

By Louella O. Parsons

John Barrymore

HOLLYWOOD, March 3—I'm glad it's Paramount and not I that thought of casting John Barrymore as the movie producer in "World Premiere." You can rest assured that John will portray a movie producer to end all movie producers—and I mean actually see where the line, "any resemblance to persons living or dead is purely coincidental" will mean more in the case than ever before. One thing must be said about John, however. His clowning is never vicious and mean.

In addition to the one and only Mr. B—Rudy Vallee has been set for the radio announcer. After doing nothing in particular for a couple of years Rudy is coming to life on the screen, what with this one and "Time Out For Rhythm" coming to "World Premiere" as I told you previously, is the mystery yarn involving a murder on one of those premiere jangles that have been so popular in various parts of the country lately.

OLIVIA de HAVILLAND concerned. Held her very hard as the great ballet dancer—he has the soul and the opening ability.

FAIR EXCHANGE is no robbery and when Warner's let Para borrow Olivia de Havilland for "Hold Back the Dawn" they demanded their 175 pounds of flesh in the person of Fred MacMurray in return for "Dive Bomber." Today Michael Curtiz left for New York to make final arrangements for the filming of "Dive Bomber" in which Fred co-stars with Errol Flynn. With all the military experts out here visiting Bow Hal Wallis should get a little free advice on Warner's defense movie and I reckon he will before the cameras start turning. Craig Stevens, a new boy on whom Warner executives pin great faith, is also in the cast.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Ilona Massey and Alan Curtis have bought a new home in Brentwood where they will be married March 15. The day after Alan's divorce from Priscilla Lawton becomes final. Then they leave for South America and Ilona said today, "You know we owe the South American tear all to you. When we were playing at Loew's State in New York a South American theater owner saw our act and sent me a telegram." Ilona will charm the birds off the trees with her voice and beauty.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Bill Lundigan has been giving Dorothy James, daughter of the governor of Pennsylvania, a whirl. She is visiting his mother and a year ago Bill visited the gubernatorial mansion; Brenda Joyce's mother, Mrs. Rosalie Leake, is in the Methodist Hospital following a major operation; that new diamond ring Rita Hayworth is wearing so proudly is the gift of her husband; Al Hall and Evelyn Ankers have called a halt to their romance again. He was beating Fay Wray to the Moccasin; Cesar Romero and Carmen Miranda dancing a tumbita at Ciro's such as you'll seldom see; Elaine Barrie, who met Norman Kerry Wednesday night and was completely fascinated, gave a dinner in his honor Friday night; Gail Patrick and Eddie Lowe are comforting each other; Roy Rogers gifted Connie Mack with a ten-gallon hat; Princess Alexandre de Caraman Chimay was being beautified at Perc Westmore's when Anna Sheridan walked by her door. "American women," she chirped, "are the loveliest in the world—so are Hollywood girls." The Junior Fairbankses are hosting a dinner for their house guest, Mrs. John Jacob Astor. She was Tucky French and a close friend of Mary Lee's before either married; Jack Hoxie, cowboy star de luxe, is back from a four-year tour to remain with us.

FRITZI SCHEFF HEADS GALA CAST IN VERSAILLES CLUB SHOW

Crawford House Puts On New Sparkling Revue

By SAM BERENSON

We knew her when . . . Your observer herewith takes a half-hitch at his turban, dusts off the crystal ball, and departs briefly from his Washday whimsy to play sooth-sayer to one of the town's loveliest and most accomplished ladies.

Today she appears to be simply a cute little trick singing before a band . . . as hundreds of girls sing with hundreds of bands . . . but there's this important exception to Nancy Gays—that behind her easy Texas twang is the colorful voice of a rising star . . . with as irresistible a charm that within the next two years—we're saying this boldly—Miss Nancy Gage will be one of the land's top-ranking song-girls.

To Mickey Alpert, all honors for her discovery . . . he first heard her on a radio broadcast out of Omaha, and in short order had her before his band at the Coconut Grove . . . our village has already taken this songstress to its heart . . . and because she's added the capacity for endless work to her natural abilities so will, in time, the country . . . you'll find her at the Grove tonight.

There's a slick show that comes awaying into the Beachcomber around sun-down, a fast, tropic-tinted entertainment dish featuring many a name and all the palmy atmosphere that makes this bar-cardi rendezvous one of the top clubs of the East . . . It's "Gone With the Wind," and jammed with color from the first zephyr . . . that famed rhumba artist, Chico Simone, makes his first Boston appearance here . . . with the Nye Mayhew lads for the cheek-to-cheek . . . One of the stand-out affairs of the winter season was the party tendered to Alfred Joslin and Roberta Grant at the Narragansett Hotel in Providence . . . they will be married soon . . . hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, with leaders from Providence's social and business worlds among the guests . . .

Jack Brown's Casa Manana, next to the Opera House, has found itself in a surging attendance up-sweep since the completion of the new subway . . . but further enthusiasm for the Casa is shown by many a bowling team, who find this salon right.

The Radio Aces, singing comedy trit at the Latin Quarter are proving to be one of the year's outstanding attractions . . . Their material is entirely original and supremely hilarious, Margie Greene, late of "Hold On To Your Hats," remains for a second week with Paul and Esther, acrobats and Harry Spear . . . Cave continues to rate highly among the gadabouts of our town . . . here's refreshing entertainment sparked by the colorful Tamara Doniva . . . with a smart band as an atmosphere as delightful as these hyar parts can offer

Field over for still another week is the illustrious Fritzi Scheff, whose voice is the outstanding allure at the Versailles . . . a glorious take-in and highly recommended if you have not yet seen her. Added this week are the famous Primrose Four, a famous quartet for many seasons . . . Willie Solar of course, remains on the bill. Bobbie Hackett's trumpet and band are making musical history here at the Versailles . . .

Elaborate new shows are the lures offered by Ort's Grill and the El Tropic Room on Essex street this week, with an accent on novelty and beautiful girls . . . In the El Tropic Room, a South Sea Island hideaway, the Dancing Donovans, Carroll Normandie and the hilarious comic, Manney Malnick, plus Chick Harris' Band, provide the continuous entertain-

"I wuz thinkin'..."

by LIZZY ORT

MIAMI BEACH, Florida — How are ya don't? Is it cold today? Youse'll excuse me askin' becu'z right at this minute I'm sittin' in the Dempsey - Vanderbilt Hotel on Miami Beach, wearin' only a pair of shorts and a sport shirt—a relie from the days when I wuz in the Busy Bee Bicycle Club—and the weather is swell.

I popped outa town yesterday, had breakfast in New York and put on the bib for dinner in Miami last night. I flew on the American Airlines and it was like steppin' out of an ice box into a steam-heated room. It's terrific! I'm gonna keep ya posted on what everybody is doin' down here. My typin' ain't good today becu' my left thumb is sore.

Nuthin' ain't neglected while I'm away. Things is hummin' in my Grill and in the El Tropic Room. In the Grill I've put the Variety Duo into the new show. They do rope spinnin', dancin' and singin' like ya see on dude ranches. In the El Tropic Room—that little South Sea Isle on Essex Street, I've got the Dancin' Donovans, steppin' to "Poet and Peasant" and Carroll Normandie, fresh from the Park Central in New York, doin' some Hawaiian and Tahitian dances that are right from those famous South Sea Isles. I ain't neglectin' my customers for a minute even tho' I'm bakin' on Miami Beach for a couple weeks.

I've been to a lot of places and I still think that for a real, whack-up evenin' of fun and frolic, for good shows and a lotta laughs, that the two best places you can find anywhere are my Grill and the El Tropic Room on 25 Essex St. Advt.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THAT SONG "There Always Be an England" matches with me these days. A. P. the dark vistas of a ruined London, it streams like a banner of flaming torches from the runners and shining undimmed faces.

Now does the avalanche surge only against the wreckage of Britain? It rises as gallantly against the twilight of poor, troubled France... the misery of the Low Countries... the shame and rage of Norway.

For that song is true! It is as true of every shackled national who still dares to dream and rebel and hope. The true dreams, the clean rebellions, never die... can never be conquered. For they are hidden far beyond the reach of guns or bombs or vicious propaganda.

They are hidden in the human heart. They are part of the soul's horizon. They are immortal. And as long as one man dares to believe in the truth and courage and love of decency which inspired his country.

There will always be an England—
There will always be a France—
And a Belgium—and a Holland—and a Greece—and a Norway—and a Finland—and a Czechoslovakia.
AND GOD helping us, an America!

I WONDER how many of us remember this secret today, or ever really learned it. We're seeing "National Defense" in terms of ships and submarines, bombs and bullets, planes and tanks. We're reckoning our own security in terms of jobs, wages and bank balances. All of which makes sense, as far as it goes. But don't delude yourself.

THE only thing that can save America... or England, Norway or the Lowlands... is the dream their children carry in their hearts. For great nations are not built by bullets or bullets. They are built on human hunger... human faith.

MARCH MONDAY MAGMA:

One of the most glamorous of spring weddings will be that of Dorothy Gannett and Thomas Ridgway Macy, Jr., of Katonah, N. Y., which is being planned for Apple Blossom time... With the picturesque Wayland estate of Dorothy's mother, Mrs. Paul Hamlen, as a setting... and the lavish ball at which Dottie made her debut, as a precedent... the wedding should be one of these story book affairs with no detail overlooked to make it a lavish and memorable occasion.

Anne Blake, striking brunette daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lowell Lake, has postponed her wedding date indefinitely because of illness... and has also resigned her job as publicity director of the Junior League... It will be orange blossoms and old lace for Mimi Little in June... This vivacious post deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Little of Concord is engaged to F. Cornelia Kenly, Jr., of Chicago and Medford, Oregon.

"Mrs. Edgar Pierce and Miss Mabel Henshaw, cocktails and luncheon, Thursday, March sixth, at twelve-thirty o'clock, Algonquin Club"... read the snappy little engraved invitations received by a number of prominent duplicate bridge fans who gather at the Commonwealth ave. club on Thursday afternoons... To add festivity to the occasion a couple of players usually join forces in entertaining their friends at luncheon beforehand.

Mr. and Mrs. Delano Putnam have returned from visiting at the beautiful Florida estate of the latter's mother... Young Standish van Voohis has packed up his kit bag and joined many of his friends at Army camp...

Boston ladies will get a closeup look at those famous frilly skirts called fustanellas, which make the Greek Evzones appear like feminine ballet dancers, yet evidently do not make them a bit lady-like while fighting...

FULL FUSTANELLA costumes will be worn by the ushers at the evening of Dance-Humoresques and Music which will be held at the Peabody Playhouse on Friday evening, March 14, to benefit the Greek War Relief Association... Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Cabot of Dover will act as patrons... Alexis Liatis, the Greek consul, and Mrs. Liatis are honorary sponsors of the affair and those on the sponsoring committee include Dr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Cushing Goodhue, Mrs. Christina Sedgwick Marquand, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Minot, Miss Sarah Wambaugh, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Dudley White, Miss Alfreda M. Mosher, Prof. and Mrs. William Z. Ripley and others.

WHEN BOSTON gets around to having a society rhumba and conga contest, blonde debutante Ann Clarke will be well up in the running, or rather the dancing... Saturday evening in the Balinese Room of the Hotel Somerset, she performed all sorts of intricate steps with a willowy grace even a South American would envy... She was in a foursome with post deb Jean Cullen, John Goode and another stalwart... Jean Cullen and Johnnie Goode repeatedly asked Jack Marshard to play more rhumbas so they could demonstrate their proficiency... Ann Clarke wore a street dress of light blue wool and Jean Cullen was in black with a gardenia in her dark hair...

Mr. and Mrs. John Goodrich (Priscilla Dennett, the golfing champ) were at a nearby table for two... Priscilla accented her blonde hair and complexion with a gold wool dress and a matching hat trimmed with sable...

Mrs. Benjamin A. G. Thorndike wore a gown of white satin with a draped scarf over her shoulders as she danced with Mr. Thorndike...

Bentley Beal, on leave from his officiating duties at Camp Edwards, acquired Anne Motley, who wore a striking dress of crimson wool with a felt hat to match... Mr. and Mrs. Homer Overy, Jr., (Gertrude Wells) were here on a visit from Pennsylvania, and all others dancing in the Balinese Room were George von I. Meyer, Jr., Patricia Bayne, Robert Marks, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strange (Ruth Williams), the latter in a black dinner gown embroidered in gold...

Pattern 9411 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16, frock and tubin, requires 4 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric. To get this pattern for 15 cents to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 5th st., New York, N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest, Pattern Book.

Miss Jackson To Be Bride

Miss Katherine Mitchell Jackson, popular post-deb from Chestnut Hill, is to become the bride of Perkins Bass, son of former Gov. and Mrs. Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire.

The bride-to-be, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Jackson of Chestnut Hill and Dublin, N. H., made her debut during the 1937-38 season and is a member of the Vincent Club. She is a graduate of the Winsor School and is at present at Radcliffe, an exchange student from Vassar, where she is a member of the class of 1942.

A grand-daughter of the late John L. Mitchell, United States senator from Wisconsin, she is a niece of the late Gen. William Mitchell of the United States Air Service.

Mr. Bass, following in his father's footsteps, has chosen politics for his career. Following his graduation from Dartmouth in 1934 he attended the Harvard Law School, and has been elected to the New Hampshire State Legislature. He is a brother of Mrs. Marshall Field, Jr. (Joanne Bass), and has many cousins in Boston's younger set. He is a grandson of Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird of East Walpole.

MISS ROSE HARMON TO WED IN JUNE

An early June wedding is being planned for Miss Rose Terry Harmon and Thomas Lincoln Talbot, 2d, Miss Harmon, who is the daughter of Dudley Harmon of Wellesley Hills and the late Selene Armstrong Harmon, is a graduate of Dana Hall and Smith College.

Mr. Talbot is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spring Talbot of Cambridge and Weston. He graduated from Harvard, where he was a member of the Hasty Pudding Institute of 1930. This week he will enter the reserve officers training school of the United States Navy in New York.

"JEFF! Jeff Renton!" The mink clad blonde stopped before one of the tables which crowded the upper dining room of Diamond Jim's.

"It is Jeff, isn't it?" she went on, her voice no longer sure.

The tall heavy man who had risen from his seat was staring at her with a puzzled expression.

"Yes," he murmured, "but I'm afraid—"

"Oh you don't remember," she laughed, "that's not surprising. I must have changed a lot. I'm Mitzi La Vern now—but I used to be Minnie Vaughn back in Wertzville, Tenn."

"Minn, little Minnie!" There was a sudden warmth of recognition in his voice and he hastened to pull out a chair. "Look here, have lunch with me, won't you? I'd like to hear all about you. You are certainly the last person I expected to see here," and he helped her off with her coat and settled her comfortably beside him.

"Call me Mitzi, Jeff—I hardly recognize the old name. Besides which you have to be careful in the show business—it wouldn't do to have my real name get around!" she grinned at him with a sympathy that seemed to cut out the rest of the world about them.

Jeff Renton signalled a waitress and grinned back. And Mitzi realized that the heaviness she had first noticed about him was more of the spirit than of the body. Though to be sure he had put on weight in the last ten years. He was still the kind of a man you liked to look at.

She eyed him appreciatively. And again she knew that somehow all was not well with him. But she made no comment and as she consulted with the waitress Jeff in his turn studied her.

No wonder he hadn't recognized her! The little Minnie whose silky hair had hung straight to her shoulder was now trimmed and polished beyond any resemblance of her former self. Her hair seemed a shade lighter and nestled in delightful curls close to her head.

A CHANGED GIRL

But it was not so much her looks as her eyes that startled him. Like pools of black against her milky white skin, they had once been mirrors of softness and trust. How then had they acquired this hard, gay calculating look?

"Naturally I've changed," Mitzi laughed, breaking into his thoughts. "Minnie Vaughn wouldn't have gone far in this burg! And I've done pretty well. But first tell me about yourself—you met a girl from the East and left Wertzville, after that none of us heard anything of you. As a matter of fact I got my chance shortly after with a show troupe! I haven't been back since—so I wouldn't have heard—did you mind?"

Jeff struggled for a cheerful expression. He wasn't going to let Mitzi know what a flop he'd made of things. So he boomed forth heartily on the idylls of married life. But he underestimated Mitzi, who had long since learned to read between the lines. "Married ten years!" she murmured, when he had finished accounting for himself—Two beautiful kids, a nice home in the suburbs—and the wife wants a divorce!

"Hey! I didn't say that," Jeff interrupted in alarm. "In fact—" But Mitzi wouldn't let him finish. "Listen Jeff—" she begged putting her hand out to him. "We're old friends. Why don't you tell me the trouble? Maybe I could help."

Jeff gazed at her miserably. Then, almost as a surprise, came the realization that he was talking—talking as he never in his life remembered having done. Letting down all the barriers and telling Mitzi all of those things which he had determined that no one should guess. "Lena was just a kid—" he was saying, "when we married. She wanted to live in the East, so we came here. It was hard going at first, but Lena never seemed to mind. She was wonderful—"

MITZI FACES FACTS

"Well, we made good"—There had been a kid the first year. Little Jeff was run over by a truck. Mitzi said nothing.

"Lena took it hard, of course. But she wouldn't have any other children till we could move out of the city."

"So as soon as things started going right for us we moved—Forest Hills, that's where we've been ever since. We have two little girls now—and Lena is a wonderful mother, but—"

"But?"

"Oh, I don't know. There's an artist fellow who lives in an attic near us and seems to have lots of time on his hands. I was glad at first. It gave Lena someone to play with. The suburbs aren't easy for a city woman to get used to and—well, I don't blame her."

Mitzi looked at him pityingly. "Men," she mused "are amazingly dumb. Because she plays around with this guy a lot and because he still has his girlish figure and is no doubt quite a hand with the ladies—you're all set that your Lena is about to ask for a divorce. "And yet from what you've just said you should be able to understand. Of course the suburbs are hard for a city girl—but why let another man help her get used to them?"

bar at six o'clock and I'll tell you all about it." And Mitzi was gone.

Jeff found Mitzi waiting for him at six o'clock. The bar was crowded, so ordering cocktails they retreated to a corner table where they could talk.

An hour later a new Jeff could have been seen making his way towards the Long Island trains. After that his home saw him but little and Mitzi and the gay spots saw a great deal of him. By an adroitly managed carelessness with phone calls and notes Lena was caused to wonder whether her husband's late hours and week-ends from home could be attributed entirely to business. But she said nothing and though he watched her secretly Jeff, too, held his peace.

Actually hating the artificial

"Face to face with Mitzi, however, her preparations seemed suddenly trite."

"You're busy all day but you don't look as though you were getting too old for a little night play. How often do you bring Lena to town for a bit of fun?"

"I know," she smiled, "you never thought! Probably Lena never asked you!" Suddenly Mitzi laughed. "Him? At his age? He's the limit," she said, wiping the tears of laughter from her eyes—"We're given the power of speech and instead of using it to keep our lives straight we let it tangle us all up."

"You're miserable—but instead of having it out with Lena, you probably go about like a bear—and she no doubt thinks you're tired of her. So she takes up with a pretty artist whom she probably despises—just to show you that she's not on the back shelf."

"But no—" Mitzi shook her head at the look that had crept into Jeff's eyes—"You can't just take her flowers and make up like children now. Women are a little more complex than that! But I have an idea."

JEFF'S PLAN

But he was not to hear it yet. Glancing at her watch and then quickly at the entrance, Mitzi reached for her coat.

"I've an appointment," she explained. "If you're interested in my plan meet me at the Piccadilly life which he found himself leading he was forced to admit that Mitzi's plan was working. Certainly the artist friend seemed less and less in evidence. Lena seemed suddenly to be following her husband with a look of anxious longing in her eyes.

Finally the time came when Jeff could stand it no longer. Even Mitzi recognized the necessity of calling a halt.

Desperately conscious that some other woman was trying to take her husband from her, Lena determined that they must come out in the open. She wanted to know just what she was up against. To accomplish this she proposed a theater party with dinner first at a smart restaurant. Don Mason, the artist, was to come and perhaps—Lena tried to look very modern and detached—perhaps Jeff could think of someone to make up the foursome? Of course Jeff took the hint.

ELECTRIC NEEDLE SPECIALIST

It was with some confidence that Lena approached the evening of the party. She had been extravagant! With one parting glance in the mirror she realized that her extravagance was not in vain.

Face to face with Mitzi and amid her preparations seemed suddenly, trite. For Mitzi had not only beauty, she had a professional glamour against which most men would be defenceless. Without Lena recognized in her a sincerity and depth which she had not expected.

So was Lena's evening ruined before it had well begun. It was soon apparent that Don Mason had joined the evening company and never once did Lena realize that her own husband had eyes for her alone.

As the evening wore on Don and Mitzi's mutual absorption became more and more obvious and Lena's dejection grew. With it grew the knowledge of the greatness of her love for Jeff.

In the past miserable weeks she had known an almost insane jealousy. Suddenly she was consumed by anger at seeing Jeff so treated by another woman. And for Don Mason!

How could Mitzi? How could she, Lena, in fact, have ever seen anything in him when Jeff was there?

LENA WAKES UP

Yes, Lena was miserable—not was Jeff less so. As they saw the unhappiness in each other's eyes they calmly read it wrong and proceeded to be even more unhappy! After the theater they went dancing and Jeff had at least the opportunity to be alone with Lena. In the midst of the dance floor, isolated by the very thickness of the crowd and the insistence of the music about them Jeff spoke.

"I'm sorry, my dear—" he tried to keep his voice steady. "If I'd thought you really cared I wouldn't have let Mitzi at him—"

"Mitzi—Oh Jeff, you think— you mean? Oh no, no!" Lena's voice was incoherent. "It's not Don, I don't care about him—it's you. I thought that you and Mitzi— she couldn't go on and Jeff, stopping suddenly, saw the tears that were so near the surface."

"Here," he muttered savagely, "we're going home." But there was nothing savage in the way he held her hand as they made their way back to the table. Nor was there any sorrow in the way her fingers curled in his.

Mitzi and Don were not in their places. Tucked under his glass Jeff found a note in Mitzi's fantastic scrawl.

They read it standing close together and they looked at each other.

"Not much taste," Lena murmured, thinking of the man Mitzi had preferred to her tall broad husband.

"None at all!" Jeff answered smiling down at his dainty little wife.

THE END.

You Can Be Beautiful

Rejuvenate Complexion!

By ARLINE GOULD
That dewy, glowing complexion ... of a 16-year-old in the throes of first love ... fades as quickly as a sunset cloud ... but today's smart woman ... whether career-bound ... or pleasure-bent ... simply must keep her complexion young, and fresh ... and the finest makeup is only so fine as the base beneath it.

The trick of modern beauty ... in these hurried, nerve-racking days ... lies in artful makeup ... applied over a foundation cream that protects a makeup against temperature changes ... and conceals those slight imperfections ... blemishes ... enlarged pores ... and faint traceries of fatigue that lie beneath. Such a cream is, indeed, one-in-a-thousand ... just as is such a bargain in loveliness as we offer today ... this miracle-working cream is for night and day ... the clock around ... the calendar round ... and it is the pride and joy of a beauty house known the world over for the superlative quality of its products. This cream embodies all the virtues of a makeup base: par excellence ... an anti-wrinkle cream ... and a night lubricating cream.

It sounds like a luxury limited to heiresses ... and it's true that, for years women have gladly paid the five dollars for which this youth in a jar sells ... but ... and this makes beauty headlines ... tomorrow, and through Saturday ... from all the year ... you may buy this cream for only $2 for the $5 jar.

Thus, the beauty secret of very rich and glamorous ladies ... may be had by any beauty budget ... and the purchaser really received three creams ... for they're embodied in this one for less than one good cream in any of the categories usually costs!

By day, under your cosmetics ... this magic potion rejuvenates the skin ... and routs wrinkles around the eyes, and such, in fine fettle ... while you turn a porcelain-beautiful face to the world ... and a jar lasts almost forever ... for five minute dots of this wonder is sufficient for your entire face ... which is, of course, scrupulously cleansed to begin.

By night ... if you loathe the greasiness of an oily lubricating cream ... apply the cream to your spandy-clean face ... and your skin will become soft ... moist ... pliable ... while you sleep ... with no greasiness to make you feel messy ... to ruin your linens.

No beauty-conscious woman can afford to pass up this cosmetic marvel ... a $5.00 value, remember, for this week only at $2.99. Phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to learn where you may find it.

Cut Calories, Lose Weight

Such a struggle for Mrs. Stout ... getting into her "armor plate" style corset! And even such strenuous measures as this don't conceal her matronly bulges.

But on a slimming low-calory diet she could lose at the rate of 10 pounds in five weeks, make those dreams of a one-piece girdle and youthful dresses come true!

It's not how much but what you eat that counts. Meals that are heavily laden with calories soon pile on the pounds. A cup of cream of corn soup (200 calories), 2 popovers with butter (300) and banana and nut salad with mayonnaise (300) add up to a total of 800 calories!

But on the same amount of appetizing food you could start melting the pounds away. A cup of lentil soup (95), 2 slices of rye bread with butter (122), tomato and shrimp salad with reducer's dressing (60) are a mere 277 calories.

Think of it—without starving or being a martyr you can regain that "perfect 36"! Just keep an eye on your calory chart, avoid pound givers like baked beans (300 calories a cup) and lemon meringue pie (300 calories a serving). Substitute buttered string beans, 88 a cup; lemon jelly, 100 a serving.

Be slim again! Our 40-page booklet, CHANGE YOUR WEIGHT FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE, gives 42 low-calory menus for reducing, based on healthful protective foods.

Egg Souffles Are Popular

By MARTHA
Between the blustering cold of winter and the lazy warm days of spring, comes the 1st of March. It's an in-between month that calls for a chop in meals. Most families welcome a main dish that's a little different from the roasts and stews they've been having. But they're not yet ready for salad plates and picnic-style meals.

So if you're trying to tempt faded end-of-the-winter appetites, check up to make sure you haven't been neglecting any of the possibilities. Eggs are down in price now, so it's an especially good time to plan meals around them.

GOLDEN-BROWN SOUFFLES
Eggs are the chief ingredient for any kind of souffle with either a thick white sauce, or bread crumbs, or both as the binder. Usually a souffle that contains bread crumbs holds up better than one made with white sauce alone.

CHEESE SOUFFLE
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 cup grated American cheese
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. mustard
4 eggs, separated
Melt butter and stir in flour; gradually add milk and cook about 5 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens; add cheese and seasonings, stirring until it is melted, and remove from heat. Gradually stir in well-beaten egg yolks and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites; turn into greased casserole or baking dish and put in pan of hot water; bake in moderate oven (350 deg.) for 50 to 60 minutes, or until delicately browned and firm to touch. Serve at once. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

LIVER SOUFFLE
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1/4 cup butter
1 cup cooked ground liver
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
Heat milk, add crumbs and cook to a thick paste. Add butter, liver and seasoning. Remove from fire and add well-beaten egg yolks and parsley. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Place in well-buttered baking dish and bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Long, slow cooking is one of the secrets of making a perfect souffle. In a moderate oven the air bubbles in the egg white will expand and the mixture will set without becoming tough. When a souffle is made with bread crumbs as a binder and is baked in a moderate oven, there's no danger that it will fall. But a souffle is always best when served as soon as it comes from the oven.

A fluffy, golden, brown souffle is hard to surpass. Or, if you're in a hurry, omelets offer another excellent way to use eggs. Cheese, flaked fish, vegetable pulp, or ground meat can be added to either the souffle or the omelet to make them worthy of their ranking as main dishes.

Huge Bomb Cave Garage for Hub

Construction of a huge concrete and steel structure beneath Boston Common and the Public Gardens, to serve as an underground garage in peacetime and as a bomb shelter in event of war was urged at the State House today.

Such a plan would solve most of Boston's parking problems by housing 15,000 automobiles, Sen. Chester A. Dolan of Roxbury told the joint committee on cities. While it would cost $15,000,000, it could become self-sustaining in a short time, he asserted.

Should Boston ever be bombed, he asserted, this underground garage could shelter a million and a half persons. Because of the defense provision, Sen. Dolan said, the government might pay part of or all of construction cost.

The garage entrances would be in Arlington at, Charles st., Tremont and Park at, and Park at, with escalator service to ground level. Plans have already been drawn for hospital and sanitary requirements in case it should be used as a bomb shelter. It was explained.

$100,000 Marcy Will Fight Opens

Contest over the $100,000 estate of J. Henry Marcy of Stoneham, for years superintendent of the commissary of the Boston & Maine Railroad, was begun today in Middlesex probate court.

Motions for jury issues were filed by two cousins, Mary St. Godard of Lowell and Josephine Racicot of Boston. They seek to establish whether the will was executed according to law and whether Marcy, who died Jan. 26, was of sound mind.

In his will was the notion: "For good and sufficient reasons I leave nothing to my relatives." Marcy left his Stoneham house and furnishings to the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts. Stock holdings of $30,000 were left to Lindenwood Cemetery for construction of a memorial chapel.

Marcy's wearing apparel was left to the vestry of All Saints Mission, Stoneham, to be disposed of at a rummage sale. A third cousin, Nelson Mercer of Lawrence, is named heir-at-law in motions filed today.

$300,000 Net Profit Hit on Hurricane Job

Profits of more than $300,000 on a job costing $153,000 will be made by the Charles I. Hosmer firm if the State is forced to pay the $200,000 the company alleges is due it under hurricane contracts, a witness for the State testified in Suffolk Superior court today.

Before Judge Francis J. Good, sitting without a jury, Ralph E. Houghton, chief accountant for the State, testified the books of the Hosmer firm showed the cost of clearing stumps of trees felled by the hurricane was $153,000.

He said the firm had already been paid $261,019.24 and a judgment in its favor would mean a net profit of more than $300,000 on the contracts.

Atty.-Gen. Bushnell, contesting on the grounds the company received excess profits, placed Raymond W. Coburn, an engineer in the department of public works, on the stand to testify the per cent profit would be "a very good one."

Fred Fair, business agent of the public works department, testified department accounts held only $10,000 with which to pay the Hosmer firm in the event judgment was obtained.

The case was continued until Friday when written testimony will be presented.

Blacklisting of Style Pirates Held Illegal

WASHINGTON, March 3 (INS)—The Supreme Court today ruled women's garment manufacturers cannot employ a special organization to blacklist retailers marketing "style-pirated" copies of original designs.

The Fashion Originators' Guild, an organization aimed at stopping "style piracy," had appealed to the court from an order of the Federal Trade Commission which held the guild had engaged in unfair competition by using such a method.

206 WPA Concerts In State's Music Week

Massachusetts began a musical week today as the various units of the state WPA music project buckled down to a program of 206 concerts at hospitals, schools, institutions, homes, armories and CCC camps.

The units consist of bands, orchestras and choral groups.

Chelsea Shoe Co. Fined $8750

Fines totalling $9475 were imposed in U. S. court today on the A. G. Walton Shoe Co. of Chelsea, and two company officials on charges of violating the Wages and Hours Act.

Judge George C. Sweeney ordered the fines on guilty findings returned by a jury in Federal court last Friday. Counsel for the firm and the two employees indicated they will appeal on exceptions taken during trial of the case.

BILL CORUM SAYS:

Baseball Loses 'Tradin' Tom'

NEW YORK, March 3.—Tom Watkins known to the baseball world as "Tradin' Tom," sold his majority interest in the Memphis Chicks the other day.

So passes another colorful figure of the baseball world. For 27 years, Tom Watkins was the owner-president of the Memphis Club and the great players who have worked for him—coming and going—would make a veritable diamond Who's Who.

His managers alone constitute a sizable list, and among others whom I recall were Dolly Stark, the glamour boy of the umpires; Doc Prothro, now pilot of the Phils; George Moriarty, the "poet" umpire; Clyde Milan, Spencer Abbott, Billy Southworth, Fred Hofmann, Johnny Dobbs and "Turkey Mike" Donlin.

It was Tom's boast that of these only Donlin was fired before his contract was completed, and only because Mike insisted on taking the pitching mound in an important extra-inning game in the pennant race. Losing, of course.

Had he won, Uncle Tom might have raised his pay instead of pointing toward the exit gate.

Had John McGraw and Bozeman Bulger and some of his other long time baseball cronies lived, it is doubtful if Watkins would have retired from the game. He had many friends in the business, not the least of them its High Commissioner, Judge Landis. But McGraw really was his man.

A sentimentalist, in spite of his reputation for driving a hard bargain, Tom could grow almost lyrical over the Little Napoleon of the Giants. John was his kind of folks and they did business through the years without bothering overmuch about the formality of contracts.

It might have been expected that when Terry took over the Giants the same old cordiality would have prevailed, for the Colonel is a Memphis man and neighbor, it didn't work out that way.

Watkins never seemed able to fathom "the Colonel," or vice versa. Yet I can't recall Tom's ever having said anything save complimentary things about Bill. Tom knew baseball and he recognized, therefore, that Terry also knew baseball. That he was a good manager. But the old entente cordiale that prevailed between the Giants and the Chickasaws died with McGraw.

Incidentally, the Chicks weren't named for baby chickens but for an Indian tribe, though whether I have spelled the tribal name correctly in the above paragraph, I am not quite sure.

McGraw's "Birthday" Town

In the days when the stubby, forceful, powerful McGraw really did come close to being a Napoleon of baseball and his Giants were the Blue Book boys of New York baseball, Memphis was McGraw's "birthday town." Not the town he was born in. He was born in Olean, N. Y.

But among other very human qualities, McGraw had a flair for being a host. Few men ever enjoyed a party more, if it was his kind of party. And John's kind of party was the kind in which he had men he liked around him.

His birthday, as I recall, came along late in March, or early April, when the Giants would be barnstorming their way North. And, when it was possible, John always tried to get to Memphis in time for the event. Or, at least, in time for the celebration of it.

For it was John's custom to throw a party for the newspapermen and as many cronies as he could assemble on or about that date. Since there was a thing called Prohibition in the land during the years that your agent traveled with the Giants, it was no easy matter to find what you might call an ideal spot for a McGrawian party.

A dry McGraw birthday party, would have been something nobody could have conceived, or believed. Least of all John himself.

It was the custom of the Giants to play from two to four games with Memphis in the Memphis park in those years, and John invariably scheduled the series so that it would fall during a week-end.

Naturally, Watkins raised no great objection to this procedure. The Giants could be counted on to pack 'em in. It was a series that meant much to a minor league club owner and also much to the Giants. Memphis could be counted on to produce what it took to offset the club's heavy training expenses.

The Only Sliding Pit in Sight

More than that, so far as McGraw himself was concerned, it could be counted on to produce what it took to make an annual birthday party hum. If the city couldn't, at least Tom Watkins could. So it came to the same thing.

It was a case of host meeting host when John and Tom got together and I can personally testify that some of the results achieved were memorable. For instance, I recall the night the argument came up about the proper way to slide into second base.

This was in a swank country club on the outskirts of Memphis. One word led to the next word and pretty soon nothing would do the disputants but that they demonstrate their arguments.

The tile and hardwood floors of the club were scarcely conducive to expert and pleasant sliding. But there comes a moment when bricks resemble confetti. Or so the Irish are said to believe.

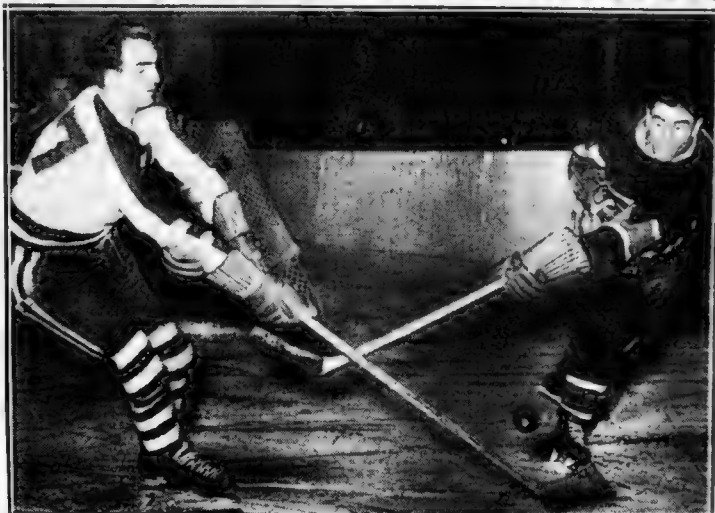

The debaters finally decided that the fireplace in the club's main hall would make as good a second base as any, and before anybody could stop them they were hooking and diving in sideways slides that would have made Ty Cobb blush with envy.

B'S FLY HOME TO RENEW STRUGGLE WITH HAWKS

EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, MARCH 3, 1941

THEY'RE SHOOTING—And it's no fun, the way the N. H. L. slaves are belting each other these days, as they race for playoff berths. Last night the Bruins had a wild battle with the Hawks in Chicago, and Canadiens fought desperately to edge Amerks, 3 to 2, in New York. Here Amerk Norman Larson, left, and Canadian Ken Reardon take full polo swings at the flying puck. See the puck? Speed-Ray has frozen it for you in this good action shot.

Boston hockey fans today awaited the return of their Bruins from Chicago for a renewal of the bitter battle staged in Chicago where the B's took a Sunday night decision, 4 to 3, amid a shower of debris.

Referee Mickey Ion, target of the fans' anger here last Tuesday when the Bruins lost to the Rangers to end a 23-game streak without a defeat, was the center of the row in Chicago.

After he slapped many penalties on Bruins and Hawks alike in the second period the fans started their barrage of programs, peanuts, pennies and similar objects, causing a ten-minute halt while the ice was cleaned.

Finally order was restored and the game continued.

The Bruins, 17 strong, flew here from Chicago today, arriving in midafternoon. That will give them a night's rest before the Hawk invasion.

It looks like a finish fight through the closing stages of the N. H. L. season, though there's little doubt about which teams will get into the playoffs.

The Bruins and Maple Leafs now are tied for first place with six games to go; Detroit is third by a two-point margin over the Rangers and Chicago and Montreal fill the other two playoff spots.

The Americans have a mathematical chance for sixth but for practical purposes they can be counted out.

scoreless tie at Toronto Saturday. Then last night the Bruins went on to Chicago and beat the Blackhawks to pull up even with the idle Leafs.

The Rangers gained a tie for third by whipping the Montreal Canadiens, 3-1, Saturday, then lost it again when Detroit's Red Wings beat them, 4-2, in overtime.

The Canadiens made a Sunday comeback to lead the Americans, 3-2, and virtually clinched their playoff third.

Berth. Boston, shut out twice during the past week after going unbeaten for 23 straight games, piled up a 3-0 lead in the first half of last night's game.

The stubborn Hawks, with 17,569 fans cheering them on, came back to tie the count only to have Ray Conacher break the tie. With less than four minutes to go, Conacher put on a one-man show for the Bruins, scoring the last three goals after assisting Bill Cowley on the first.

Detroit tied the Rangers with two third-period goals and went on to win when Rookie Joe Fisher and Syd Howe tallied in the extra ten minutes.

The Americans, so badly crippled they only had 12 men in uniform and with Earl Robertson back in the nets in place of Rookie Charlie Rayner who was hurt at Detroit Friday, couldn't stay in front of the Canadiens although they took the lead twice.

Johnny Quilty gave the hawks their second tie late in the second period and Ray Goffie banged home the winning tally in the third.

BUSHNELL TO GET EVIDENCE ON RACE REPEAL PLEA BLASTS

The State Ballot Law Commission decided today to turn over to Atty. Gen. Robert T. Bushnell evidence obtained at a hearing on protests that an initiative petition for repeal of horse and dog racing contained forged signatures.

The protest was brought by horse and dog track operators. The decision to submit the evidence to the attorney general's office was announced by James A. Conway of Hull, commission chairman.

The announcement came shortly after Frank W. Crocker, counsel for the citizens' committee for Massachusetts, sponsoring the petition, asked in a surprise move for its withdrawal.

He told the commission that his clients were convinced that the petition could be voided because certain technicalities of the law relating to signatures had not been observed.

Meanwhile, an attempt to place the question of repealing the pari-mutuel law at the next state election collapsed at a hearing before the ballot law commission.

Conway declared that "we are fully convinced that the petition should not go on the ballot and will issue a decree to this effect immediately."

Novikoff Reaches Agreement With Cubs

AVALON, Cal., March 3 (AP)—Slugging Lou Novikoff reached a salary agreement with the Chicago Cubs as a rookie outfielder.

A few minutes later he put on a uniform and hit the first ball pitched to him in batting practice. Novikoff was said to have been asking $4000 for his first big league tryout, but was believed to have settled for $6000 and a promise of a bonus if he delivers at the plate as expected.

Carlisle Huskies Win Sled Horses

NORTH TROY, Vt., March 3 (AP)—More than 4000 persons, including Gov. William H. Wells, saw a team of huskies from Foxstam Kennel, Carlisle, Mass., win the sled dog race at the second annual winter carnival here.

Bill Shearer, of Boston, drove the winner in the final race this season under auspices of the New England Sled Dog Assn.

A Dion, of Lebanon, N. H., captured first prize in the Class A ski jumping on pay Peak. M. Young, of Newport, Vt., won Class B.

Dan Cupid Shooting Darts at Court Stars

By Associated Press

Golfer Willie Turnesa's draft number will be coming up shortly. . . Right now Jack Doyle, the "Wizard of Odds," learns to the Yanks and Reds, but he's afraid the draft is going to ball everything up.

Dan Cupid just called to say Don Budge has fallen hard for Alice Marble and vice versa. They say she's cut his malted milk quota from 10 to five per day. Also, Don must be thinking of other things than tennis, for old Bill Tilden pinned his ears back in Fort Worth the other night.

The draft has bagged Jack Naylor, ex-Colombia backfield star, and he leaves for camp today.

There were more football coaches than fight managers at the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament. . . The Browns have a standing offer for Rick Ferrell, which may be why Rick signs those Washington contracts so promptly.

Just 21 coaches applied for the Boston College job, while more than 50 went into a mad scramble for Al McCoy's old post at Colby. . . Boston Jersey City and Washington are trying to get the Tony Galento-Buddy Baer go away from Philly. How come?

Jimmy Foxx is commuting between the Red Sox training camp at Sarasota and St. Pete, where he owns a golf course. . . Jack Curley, veteran boxing instructor in a New York gym, says Dempsey would have polished off Joe Louis in two heats.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 3—Big Pebble, victor in the $50,000 Widener Challenge Cup race, will race at Narragansett Park, Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Rhode Island track, received assurances today from Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Moore of New York and Wyoming, owners of Big Pebble, that they would ship their champion to Rhode Island.

"I would like Big Pebble to show his speed to the people of New England at Narragansett Park," Mr. Moore told Judge Dooley. "I believe that Big Pebble will prove one of the best thoroughbreds of the year."

Mr. Moore told me that he wagered only $150 on Big Pebble.

"I had $50 to win, $50 to place and $50 to show on my entry," said Mr. Moore. "I was satisfied to let the purse be the big bet I was shooting at."

"I felt my entry would win, but wasn't sure whether it would be Big Pebble or Get Off who would finish first. Trainer William B. Finnegan had assured me both horses were fit for the big race. I didn't care which of them won, and never dreamed they would run one, two."

"Charles McLennan, racing secretary for Hialeah Park and Suffolk Downs, has talked to me about entering Big Pebble in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap. I am going to try to fit this race into Big Pebble's program. Maybe Get Off may beat Big Pebble the next time they start an entry, and this may happen at Narragansett Park or Suffolk Downs."

"I know all that Lou Smith of Rockingham Park has done for racing, and when we go to New England we shall try to adjust our schedules so that our colors will be carried by Big Pebble, Get Off and other star thoroughbreds in New Hampshire."

Big Pebble Proved They Can Come Back

RACE GOERS AT HIALEAH PARK on Saturday admitted even before the Widener Cup race that Big Pebble could step lively, but they asserted he needed a soft or muddy track to win.

Big Pebble, veteran of the turf, had shown signs of soreness on the fast Hialeah track. The track, said the experts, was made to order for Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech.

Then everyone knew that a little more than a year ago Col. Bradley had sold Big Pebble to Mr. Moore's Circle M. ranch for $5000. The good colonel didn't think Big Pebble was much of a horse. At the time Mr. Moore wanted to have his colors in the Widener Cup race and was willing to pay $5000 for the privilege.

Much to the surprise of Col. Bradley, Mr. Moore and to about everyone else, Big Pebble finished second to Many Stings in the Widener race.

Came another year and Big Pebble, a long shot, won half of the McLennan Memorial and gave his owner $10,000.

Despite Big Pebble's victory in the McLennan Memorial he was once more a long shot. It was argued that horses like Bimelech and Haah would blind him with their driving speed.

Col. Bradley had never spoken of Bimelech and Big Pebble in the same breath when he owned both of them. And race track people felt the colonel knows his horse flesh, especially when he has two horses in his own barn at the same time.

One almost felt the colonel was right, as Haah and Bimelech set a dizzy pace for most of the one mile and a quarter distance. Big Pebble was 12th in the back stretch. At times he appeared almost out of the contention. Get Off also ran well back through the back stretch.

Then Don Meade was up on Bimelech. Meade had been the crack Bradley rider for years, and now that the colonel wishes to show Big Bim at his best he had Meade up on him.

Big Pebble never did accept his $5000 price tag. He felt as if he was every bit as good a horse as Bimelech and maybe a bit better. When Big Pebble got loose in the stretch and started to fly at the eighth pole he proved his belief in himself. Even Get Off, his stable mate, could not withstand his bursting speed.

The $5000 horse today has the right to turn up his nose on Bimelech and other turf aristocrats, but he isn't doing so. Big Pebble has work ahead in New England and he intends to do it. I know race goers will like him.

Like Brass Monkey, who also was not highly regarded by the turf aristocrats, Big Pebble likes to come from behind. In the final stretch drive, when heart is often as important as speed and condition, Big Pebble is at his best. If you don't believe this statement wire Big Pebble's old stable mate, Big Bim, and he'll agree that I'm right.

Racing Picture Shifts to Tropical Park

THE FLORIDA RACING PICTURE shifted to Tropical Park today. This meeting will last until April 10 and should furnish some excellent racing. The thoroughbreds like the Coral Gables track and they usually show to good advantage on it.

Tom Thorp will be presiding steward at Tropical Park. Tom says Racing Secretary Bob Shelley has secured many of the better horses and that the competition will be keen.

New England's tracks will be well represented at the Tropical opening. Judges James E. Dooley and Jim Connors of Narragansett Park will attend, while Charles F. Adams of Suffolk Downs will also be present.

Sheldon Fairbanks, horse owner as well as one of the executives of Wonderland Park, will be on hand to see his horse, Range Dust, in action.

Pure Boxers Hold Stage At Arena

The only boxing show of the week on Boston's sports calendar will be staged tonight at Boston Arena when the Irish-American A. A. offers the second tryout tournament of the annual N. E. Championships.

Hard-hitting leather toilers from all corners of the Bay State have signed with many boys entered who have already shown to great advantage in the big tournaments this season.

Bouts will be held in eight classes. All boxers report at the Arena at 6 o'clock to weigh in, and the show will get under way at 8 o'clock, due to the large number of entries already on file.

Tonight's winners in all classes as well as the winners of last Monday night, plus the winners of the final tryout, to be held March 10, and the winners of the 41 state championships will clash at the Garden March 17 in the finals for the New England A. A. U. championships.

Among the boys entered are Clem Crowley, Dorchester; and Billy Somma, Jr., Lawrence, in the 112; Paul Bangs, Cambridge; Joe Conley, South Boston; Joe Landry, Gardner; and Fred Petrone, Worcester, in the 118; Mert Hunt, Camp Edwards; James Lyman, Lowell; Joe Montiero, Wareham; Anthony DiPrizio, Boston, and John Melio, Cambridge, in the 126; the 135-pounders include Joe Nelson, Roxbury; Dom DiTomaso, Camp Edwards; Daniel Lawler, Lowell; George Drexler, South Boston; William McNeil, South Roxbury; Francis Welch, Lowell, and Alfred Carroll, Medford.

In the 147-pound division are Tom Albanese, East Boston; Gerard Callahan and Dave Andrews, Lowell; Al Brien, Lawrence; John Bennis, Boston, and Donald McGrath, Cambridge.

Tommy Hill, Lowell; George Beland, Boston; Anthony Bonamo, Malden, and Jim Mahoney, Lowell, are among the 160-pounders.

Charlie Serget, Fort Banks; Joe Hardy, South Boston; Jim Curran, South Boston; Leo Bronzetti, Framingham, and Thomas Bacchi, Cambridge, are entered in the 175-pound class.

$913,370 Bet At Hialeah Park For New Record

MIAMI, Fla., March 3 (AP)—The crowd that saw mighty Bimelech humbled by Big Pebble in the $50,000 added Widener Cup race wagered a total of $913,370 to break a modern one-day record at Hialeah Park.

On the big race alone, $160,878 was bet, and of this $62,677 rode on the prohibitively-favored Bimelech, who finished fourth. The day's mutuels exceeded the total for any program since Joseph E. Widener took the track over in 1931.

For the Hialeah 46-day meeting, attendance increased but total mutuel play dropped an average of about $9000 a day.

MacPhail, Owen Settle Salary Fuss

HAVANA, March 3 (AP)—Catcher Mickey Owen, who had been a long-distance holdout against the Brooklyn Dodgers, came to terms after a 15-minute consultation with President Larry MacPhail, who was believed to have compromised on a bonus contract.

Owen wanted $10,000 and possibly more, but it was understood he signed for a base pay of about $5000 with an arrangement that would give him the amount he wanted, provided he became the Dodgers' regular catcher and appeared in 100 games.

Canada, U. S. Divide Honors on Ski Trail

MONT TREMBLANT, Que., March 3 (AP)—Canada and the United States divided honors in a two-day international ski meet.

Dartmouth College skiers defeated McGill, 300 points to 288 in downhill and slalom contests and a team of Canadian women beat their American rivals, 100 to 95.98.

WAITS GONG—Paul Bangs of Cambridge, boxing in the 118-pound class at the Arena tonight, is considered by experts the logical winner of the class. Paul made a fine showing in the first elimination series and has what it takes to win top honors.

BERGMAN 'INTERESTED' IN B. C. JOB

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Resignation of the football and basketball coaches led to the disclosure today that Catholic University has decided to de-emphasize athletics.

A. J. (Dutch) Bergman, director of athletics and head football coach, and Forrest G. (Fod) Cotton, head basketball and assistant football coach, last night announced their resignations effective June 1, when their contracts expire.

Bergman explained that they acted "because of the fact that a drastic change is to be made in the athletic policies" of the university.

He added that he was interested in the Boston College job vacated by Frank Leahy when he took over as football coach at Notre Dame, succeeding Elmer Layden. Bergman's football teams at C. U. won 60, lost 31 and tied four in 11 years. Cotton's basketball team lost all of its 12 games this season.

Belmont $25,000 Stake Set for June 7

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The Belmont Stakes, New York's $25,000 added jewel in the so-called triple crown of American racing, will be run Saturday, June 7, at Belmont Park.

The date for the big feature of the metropolitan season was announced along with the program of 20 stake events which will be offered at Belmont's spring meeting. As usual the Suburban Handicap will be run on May 30.

CYO Teams Show Wares In Title Tilt

The 175 teams in the Catholic Youth Organization's Basketball League will complete their regular season's schedule this week and next week will enter the first play-off series for the various championships.

As was done in baseball, the league has been divided into three age groups—senior, junior and intermediate. Each age group is divided into five divisions.

St. Stephen of Boston has clinched senior honors in district one of the Suffolk deans. Blessed Sacrament of Jamaica Plain and St. Thomas of Jamaica Plain are deadlocked in district two and St. Rose of Chelsea and St. John of Winthrop are tied in district three.

Shellenback's Plan Proves Beneficial To Red Sox Hurlers

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 3—The Red Sox enter the month of March like the mythical Lion, and just as sound physically as the renowned Nubian.

It is safe to say that no Major League squad ever closed its first week of training in better condition than these current charges of Joe Cronin's.

There are no sore arms among the 20 hurlers in camp, thanks to the sage counsel of pitching coach Frank Shellenback.

The old Coast League spitball ace has given the pitchers more running than they ever received before, at any training camp. All admit it. The reason?

"A pitcher can come up with a sore arm very quickly if his legs are not in shape," says Shelly. "He's out on the mound, and if a leg aches here and there, he starts to throw unnaturally to favor the leg."

"Remember how Dean ruined his arm in the all-star game by favoring his sore toe? It's the same principle."

"I say to it that they couldn't throw hard this week for that reason," Shelly went on. "Get a pitcher's legs good and sore, and he can't throw hard. And if he can't throw hard, he won't hurt his arm."

LEGS IN SHAPE

"There are plenty of games on our exhibition schedule this spring for every pitcher to get a thorough testing, and those exhibition games don't start until next Friday."

"Their legs are in shape now, I reckon, and next week I'll let them hear down a little harder."

"Meanwhile, I'll keep them running around the park, increasing the yardage each day until they are able to run five laps without puffing. And when a pitcher can run five laps around this park (it's a most precious one) I'll guarantee he'll be able to stand on his feet for nine innings."

"That's what we are shooting for this year, nine-inning pitchers, and we'll soon find out who can stand up under the grind and who can't. It will be just a survival of the fittest."

STARTED WITH 3 LAPS

First day out, Shelly gave the boys one lap around the park before practice, two at the close.

Tuesday he gave them one lap around the park before practice, two more at the close, then walk a lap and then a third fast one. He's been increasing it gradually every day.

It's only fair to state that Shelly himself and Joe Cronin lead the parade every day, run every inch of the way with their charges, ache just as much, probably more, and perspired just as much.

The fielders are in camp now, and Shelly has divided the pitchers into groups, keeping a time chart to give every one a like opportunity.

Only Butland, Sayles and Rich, sore arm victims last year, are not adhering to the schedule. Shelly is giving them more time than the other pitchers to get their arms in trim.

Highlights of the first week's drills may be classified as follows:

1—The Sox never had a stronger, more mature group of pitchers in camp than this year. Add, Newsome, Ryba, Fleming and Wagner have all been well seasoned in Double A ball.

2—Ryba, a smart oldster, is farther advanced than any of the others.

3—Hughson, Judd, Ryba, Powell were all smart enough to do considerable throwing before they ever reached camp, and as a result are ready for the big opportunity that awaits them.

4—Judd not only looks like a slick southpaw, but he can hit the ball a mile. He can be used as a left-handed pinch hitter and utility outfielder when not pitching. And he can run like a deer.

5—Kids like Johnson and Harris look ready.

There are 20 pitchers in camp, counting the unwanted Alex Mustakis. The Sox will keep about 11. Long range guess on the 11 they'll keep, just to compare it with the final list on May 15.

To stay: Grove, Wilson, Dickman, Dobson, Fleming, Ryba, Judd, Hughson, Johnson, Harris, Rich.

To go: Sayles, Dasso, Mustakis, Brown, Hughson, Eutland, Newsome, Powell, Wagner.

McNair First Tiger Casualty

LAKELAND, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Detroit's Champion Tigers opened their spring training here and within two hours had acquired their first casualty when Eric (Boob) McNair, candidate for shortstop, turned an ankle in a leap for a throw.

McNair made his own way to the clubhouse and his injury was not believed serious. However, Manager Del Baker ordered an X-ray. McNair acquired on waivers this winter from the Chicago White Sox, is battling with the veteran Dick Bartel and Frankie Croucher for the shortstop job.

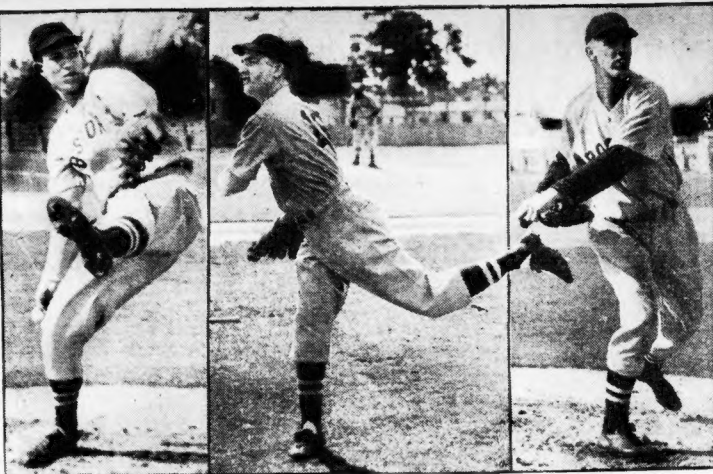

To sweeten this adversity the Tigers had indication that Pitcher Buck Newsom was "in form" for another big year. Buck, although ordered to report with the other batters, was absent. This was considered typical for the volatile one, and it was taken for granted that no news from Buck was the best kind of news.

CHISOX REST

PASADENA, Cal., March 3 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox rounded out their first week at spring training camp with a day of rest.

NEW HURLING PROSPECTS . . . Sink or swim, the Red Sox are counting on a flock of young pitchers to carry the club's flag in this year's pennant race. When the veterans all turned turtle, Manager Cronin adopted drastic measures and decided to gamble with a flock of youngsters. Above is Norman Brown, last year with Rocky Mount, with a 12 and 6 record; Mickey Harris, who won 4 and lost 2 with the Sox last year and Earl Johnson, last year with Rocky Mount, boasting a 12 win and 6 loss mark.

Bimelech Quits Track for Stud

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 3 (AP)—Bimelech's losing race in the $50,000 Widener cup at Hialeah means his immediate retirement to stud, it was expected.

Writing in the Lexington Herald, Sports Editor Neville Dunn said Col. E. R. Bradley was "looking for a sign" that would determine Bimelech's future course, and entered him in the Widener "but for one purpose—to show his owner whether he had regained top form."

"He took Bimelech's losing race as that sign and so Bimelech is coming home."

The last son of Black Toney, champion three-year-old in 1940, Dunn said would return to Bradley's Idle Hour farm near here "probably by Friday."

Fishing, Golfing Reds' Order of Day

TAMPA, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Manager Bill McKechnie mapped the second week of training for the Cincinnati Reds while the world champion players put in the off-day fishing and golfing.

The absence of any word from Holdout Ernie Lombardi, the big catcher, and the picking of a successor to Shortstop Billy Myers are the main problems confronting McKechnie, General Manager Warren C. Giles and Coach Jewel Ens.

Mayer Loses Van Dusen

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP)—Movie Magnate Louis B. Mayer has lost the services of ace Trainer Clyde Van Dusen, who last week saddled four winning horses in a single afternoon for a Santa Anita record.

Mayer said Van Dusen resigned because of ill health and commented:

"I hate to see him go. He is a fine man and a fine trainer."

Van Dusen said he and his wife planned a trip to Kentucky, but would return to California. He leads all trainers at the Santa Anita meeting with 21 winners. Two weeks ago he joined holders of the previous record of three victors in a single afternoon.

Before Van Dusen took complete charge of the Mayer horses last spring, the film producer had only indifferent success with the stable, despite large expenditures.

Dodgers Sweep Giant Series

HAVANA, March 3 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers completed a sweep of their three-game series with the New York Giants by wrapping up a 6 to 2 victory in the sixth pitching of Luke Hamlin, Steve Rachunok and Wesley Flowers.

The Giants were saved from a shutout when Babe Young hit a two-run homer in the second.

Blanton, Warren Arrive in Camp

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Cy Blanton, castoff of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who hurled great ball for the Phillies last season, arrived at the Phils' training camp today in company with Ben Warren, regular catcher.

They arrived after the squad had had run through a light workout under Manager Doc Frohro.

Tropical Opens 34-Day Meet

MIAMI, Fla., March 3 (AP)—The Florida horse racing scene shifted today from Hialeah to Tropical Park at nearby Coral Gables, where the spring Inaugural purse was listed as the first day's feature of a 34-day meeting.

Mrs. W. C. Stroube's Exarch was expected to be favored in the Inaugural, for which 4-year-olds and up were eligible.

Officials at the Gables track were optimistic about prospects for the spring meeting, pointing to the big crowds that attended Hialeah during the closing days of the meeting there.

The Hialeah meeting picked up remarkably after a slow start. After the first 33 days betting was running $902,000 under the total for the same 1940 period, but heavy wagering in the final days reduced the deficit to $410,250.

Attendance at Hialeah showed an increase from 573,162 in 1940 to 579,119 this year. The average daily mutuels plays for this year, however, was $916 less than the daily play in 1940.

A total of $24,944,156 was wagered during the 1941 meeting, compared to $25,354,406 in 1940.

Oliver Takes Plane to Don Army Uniform

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March (AP)—Ed Oliver caught a mid night plane from Miami tonight to report tomorrow to his draft board at Wilmington, Del.

Oliver played today in the first round of the international four-ball golf tournament. He and his partner, Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., won their match and were scheduled to go into the second round tomorrow.

Other contestants were expected to permit Heafner to select a substitute partner.

Bowling Classic Set

By WALTER KILEY

Announcement of the sixth annual American-Record Grand Candlepin Bowling Championships met with immediate response from New England's many thousands of men and women bowlers.

The long awaited annual candlepin title tournament is to be held at the Huntington Club, 255 Huntington Avenue, Boston, from Saturday, March 29, through Saturday, April 12, 1941—Sundays excluded.

From the number of inquiries which found their way into the American-Record offices previous to the week-end tournament announcement, and from the record-smashing number of bowlers who are engaging in the sport during the present winter season, it becomes virtually a certainty that the biggest entry in the six-year history of the event is in prospect.

IDEAL BOWLING SITE

The Huntington Club is the ideal site for such a tremendous tournament because it is not only easily accessible but is big enough to take ample care of the mighty fields.

There are 66 resplendent alleys at the Huntington Club, each of championship structure, beautifully conditioned, airy and well lighted. It is a modern bowling palace, with everything needed to provide for the comfort and convenience of both participants and spectators.

It is right next door to Boston's Symphony Hall, and the new Huntington Ave. subway comes up to surface levels almost at the very portals.

The American-Record tournament is the biggest in world candlepin competition. More than 5000 men and women have taken part in the spirited competition each year since its inaugural six seasons ago.

This year's title conditions differ little from last year's. There will once again be two major divisions, one for amateurs and the other for "open" bowlers, the latter comprising alley owners and employees and top-flight "Class A" performers.

In each division there will be singles, doubles and five-man team competitions for both men and women. And there will be mixed doubles as well. Finally, there will be the usual separate divisions for high school boys and girls with their distinct championship awards. The "open" winners and front

Alley owners, proprietors, employees and all "open" bowlers may enter "open" division ONLY.

AMATEUR DIVISION—Each event three strings—high total three-string pinfall to count. Entry fee $1.00 including bowling cost. High school boys and girls $0.50.

OPEN DIVISION—Men's singles to be five strings elimination. Women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles five strings. Team competition three strings. Men's singles $3.00 entry fee; all others $2.00 (plus bowling). (All open fees returned in cash prize.) High school boys and girls must roll before 6 P. M.

PLEASE FILE EARLY

finishers will receive cash prizes amounting to the full total of the entrance fees. Amateurs will be rewarded with a glittering array of diamond medals, trophies and merchandise prizes, about which there will be much more to say later.

The entry blank appears on these pages for the first time today. Printed plainly on it are all of the rules and conditions, including the entry fees, number of strings to be bowled and other pertinent information.

The tournament is open to every man and woman, boy and girl bowler in New England. All will be given a warm welcome.

In view of the big increase in the number of teams—both male and female—who competed in regular league matches throughout the current season, it seems to be a foregone conclusion that the five-man competition will be hotter than ever.

Bowling fans are urged to file their entry blanks as soon as possible. The tournament opens in some three weeks and the entries close on Tuesday, March 25. Early entries will get preferred starting times and alleys on the basis of first in, first choice. It's the big event of the year, fans. Let's see those blanks come piling up on us.

B'S ROOKIE MILT SPAHN MAY BE PITCHING STAR

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, March 3—About two years from now the New England baseball fans will be reading about a 21-year-old southpaw pitcher, who hails from Buffalo, N. Y.

Milton Spahn is his name.

A year ago, Milt Spahn stepped from semi-pro ball in the Bison City to the Bradford, Pa. club of the Pony League. He graduated from South Park High School in Buffalo in June, 1938.

Then, he matriculated at Bryant and Stratton and spent two years studying accounting. He pitched three years at South Park High and during the summers, he played Junior American Legion ball in the Bison City as did Sibby Sisti and Chet Ross. Then, he moved up into semi-pro and soon became the outstanding young southpaw of Northern New York.

SCHOOLBOY STAR

During his senior year at South Park High School, Spahn caught the eye of a Bee's scout and agreed to go with Bob Quinn's organization when he finished his schooling. Milt Spahn is only 19 years of age. He has been assigned to the Bee's farm club at Evansville of the Three Eye League. It was a fine break for the young southpaw to be sent to Bob Coleman, who manages Evansville, for his boss is one of the best teachers in baseball.

Coleman has been very successful with young ball players. And he has developed many big league stars including Hank Greenberg, Gerald Walker and Chet Ross. He was the manager who started Art Johnson on his way to the National League.

Under Bob Coleman, Milt Spahn should develop into a great pitcher. Right now, Spahn stands six feet weighs about 160. He's slender looking but should fill out to tip the beam at from 185 to 190. He's as loose as a goose and possesses a natural left hand delivery.

He hasn't been allowed to bear down since he came to camp, but by the end of the week he'll have a chance to show Casey Stengel and Bob Coleman just what he has as a pitcher. From what they have seen of him, Stengel and Coleman regard Spahn as a great prospect, barring accidents and if the draft doesn't grab him, when he reaches his 21st birthday.

Milt Spahn reported to Manager Eddie Onslow at Bradford the first day of last July. Six weeks later, he injured his pitching arm. But, during the month and a half he was on active service, Spahn was in 15 ball games. He started off as a relief pitcher but when he went off active duty, Milt's record was six wins against four losses.

FLEASHED WITH CHANCE

Although he didn't pitch during the last two weeks of the Pony League season, Spahn stayed with the Bradford club. Upon his return home, Milt consulted an osteopath who discovered that a tendon had slipped out of place. The ailment was remedied and up to the present writing hasn't returned.

"I surely appreciate Mr. Quinn's invitation to come here with the Bees," Milt Spahn told your operative. "It's a great organization. Mr. Stengel, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Onslow and Mr. Kelly have been fine to me. They have all taken the trouble to watch me and offer suggestions, every one of which I realize are beneficial to my future in baseball."

"I'm glad that John Quinn has assigned me to play for Mr. Coleman. There are a number of boys in camp who have played under Mr. Coleman, and they all tell me that he's a fine man to work for, one who will never give up on a youngster as long as he believes the boy has a chance and is trying to learn."

So list the name of Milton Spahn in your 1942 or 1943 book. Then you'll know his background when he goes up to the Bee's for National League competition.

Behind the Net

Nineteen forty . . . last year the Bruins led the seven-team NHL but the Rangers were too fast for them in the playoffs, the New Yorkers winning four out of six . . . Lanky Milt Schmidt was top scorer in the league with 52 points, and the other two-thirds of the Kraut line, Dumart and Bauer, led for runner-up spot with 43 points . . . Bauer also won the Lady Byng Trophy for "most gentlemanly" player . . . Cowley with 46 points, Cain with 31, and Roy Conacher with 30, were other Bruin high scorers . . . Dit Clapper scored 23 points and was the best defenseman in the loop

WINCHESTER LAD TURNS ON HEAT

Lamanna May Quit Mound for Outfield

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 3 —The Bee's have noticed a change over the Plaza Hotel. There are more than forty ball players in the party and all seats in the lobby are at a premium . . . And the Plaza must be tops for nary a complaint has been heard concerning the service, meals or rooms.

It will be just too bad for any of the late arrivals who attempt to stay with Eddie Miller for the next week or so . . . Eddie has been here for more than a week and he has worked without a let-up during every practice session . . . If he wore down as hard in Florida as he has here Eddie Miller would have collapsed.

Instead of making them loggy, there's something about the air here that pep's up the players . . . And, with our fingers crossed, we'd like to call attention to the fact that no player has come up with a "Charlie Horse" . . . Nick Strincevich is the only casual . . . A couple of blisters . . . Art Johnson, the big southpaw from Winchester, has started to open up the throttle . . . He's very "quick" and has the poles to catch himself a regular berth with the first variety.

Casey Stengel has heard so much favorable comment about Frank Lamanna's hitting ability that he intends to have a look-see at the former Hartford Bee in the outfield . . . Lamanna is one of the fastest men on the squad and if he can be developed into a center fielder he may toss away his toe plate.

Judging from the speed with which the water disappeared, the drainage system at Pitman-Sullivan Park must be perfect . . . It was very fortunate for the Bee battersmen that the city authorities agreed to allow them to practice at Alamo Stadium, which, although a football gridiron and therefore very narrow for baseball, is covered with firm soil and heavy grass . . .

During one of the press meetings, Casey Stengel was asked "How do you think the squad is coming along?" . . . "Well, as I see it," replied Casey, "Jack Onslow's dog, Peggy, is ahead of last year. Instead of being a holdout, she reported early, has done a lot of running and her legs are in better shape."

Fr. John Sullivan, a friend of Fr. John H. Healy, who is at Our Lady of Sorrows Church, went to school with Sailor Bill Posedel out at Vallejo, Calif.

Dusty Mills, the oldtime American League southpaw, is now the press agent for the Pacific Coast League . . . Wes Ferrell knows how to condition himself . . . He goes through the same routine every day and at this writing looks better than he has in three years.

Casey Stengel admits that his toughest job is to pick the pitching corps . . . There's a wide open battle in progress between 16 hurlers for 10 berths . . . The battery men will not be run for three or four days . . . Their legs are in shape after about a week at Alamo Stadium and now it's up to them to condition their arms . . . Instead of chasing fungoes they'll pitch batting practice for the next few days.

ARCHIE IMPRESSIVE

ORLANDO, Fla., March 3 (AP)—President Frank Griffith and Manager Bucky Harris expressed satisfaction today at the initial showing of George Archie, the Senators' rookie first-sacker from the Coast League.

Pirate Hurlers Don Overshoes in Practice Session

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 3 (AP) — Irked by steady rains that have fallen since last Friday, fiery Frankie Frisch of the Pittsburgh Pirates stormed today. "My pitchers and catchers will work out if they have to wear bathing suits." Wearing rubber overshoes instead of cleats, the battersmen practiced briefly, but in their regulation uniforms. They held the workout on a parking lot because the playing field was too muddy.

Mickey Alpert Tells John E. Warner, "Thanks to You I Saved My Hair"

BOSTON, March 1 (J. W.)—Mickey Alpert, nationally famous orchestra leader, whose band is now playing at the Coconut Grove, knows that his fine head of hair is a real asset. He says "the treatment and advice given by John E. Warner and his associates in the past has enabled me to save and improve my hair after all other methods had failed. I can highly recommend this service to any man who is in danger of losing his hair." Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through treatment by John E. Warner and associates. John E. Warner and his associates will not accept any case for treatment where the applicant is bald, the hair is too far gone or beneficial results are not reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private scalp examination and consultation. The Warner offices are conveniently located at 515 Washington St., Boston, near the corner of West St., opposite R. H. White. Suite 710-13. Hours 10 a. m. to 8 p. m., daily. Saturdays to 6 p. m. Fees for treatment are very moderate. There is a separate department for women.
